Await Girl's Story on Night of Horror

Chicago Rocked By More Deaths

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. AP — Gov. Otto Kerner ordered the National Guard into action today to help quell racial disturbances in Chicago.

The governor called out 15 Chicago area units with 3,000 men at the request of Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago.

Vols Back To Fire in Pine Grove

Centerville volunteer firefighters in command of Chief Granville (Scotty) Myer battled a major woods fire in the area off Stoll Road, Pine Grove, Tuesday afternoon, and firemen returned to the area today to quell fires that erupted in several places.

Chief Myer said shortly before noon yesterday, Centerville firemen responded to a call for a minor woods fire, and on the way firefighters saw clouds of smoke billowing high in the air in another section of the district.

Rush to Major Fire

The minor blaze was quickly extinguished and firemen made a fast run with equipment to the Stoll Road blaze which developed into a major fire that swept more than 10 acres of woodland, according to Chief Myer.

Firemen were at the scene from shortly after noon until 9:35 p. m. when the recall was recorded.

At 8:30 a. m. today, one of the volunteers who was in a detail to maintain an all-night vigil at the fire area informed Chief Myer that flames had broken out in several places, and firemen returned to try to extinguish the fire.

Chief Myer noted that yesterday's fire occurred in rugged woodland, inaccessible from highways or back roads and it was necessary to cut paths for firemen and mobile units to enter the woods.

The only vehicles that we could use were four-wheel drive vehicles," Chief Myer said.

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Negroes — a young girl and a man — were shot and killed early today during the third night of violent disturbances in a predominantly Negro community on the West Side, police said.

Eight policemen were wounded by snipers, and two of them were hospitalized.

Girl Victim 14

The girl, Roseland Howard, 14, was hit by a stray bullet and killed as she stood on a front porch during a wave of trouble in the area, which is about four miles from the western edge of downtown Chicago.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Mt. Sinai Hospital. A spokesman at the morgue said she was shot in the head.

The man, shot a short time later, was identified as Raymond Williams, 22, of Robinsonville, Miss., by Cook County Hospital authorities. He also was dead on arrival.

It was not known who fired the fatal shots, police said.

Hospital Treat 50

Chicago hospitals said they had treated or admitted about 50 persons. Police said more than 200 persons were arrested.

At least nine Negroes were shot and wounded, police said. Two policemen including a captain, were shot in the back.

Six other policemen and a fireman were treated for superficial gunshot wounds and released, police said.

More than 900 policemen were sent into the area Thursday afternoon in an effort to quell the disturbances which were touched off Tuesday night when police turned off a fire hydrant in a neighborhood three miles east of Thursday night's and this morning's unrest.

Seen Looting Store

Police said Williams and another Negro man were seen looting a store in the area and were chased into an alley where Williams was shot to death and the other man wounded.

It was the same alley where a policeman, Donald Ingraham, about 31, was shot a few hours earlier as officers attempted to find a sniper in a building. He was admitted to St. Anthony's Hospital in good condition with a gunshot wound in his back.

Among the injured was Police Capt. Francis Nolan, watch commander of the Deering Dis (Continued on Page 12, Col. 3)

College Budget Hearing Set July 25

Supervisors Refer 'Seniors' Exemption Bid to Committee

Provisions of new legislation which would grant 50 per cent tax exemption on real property to certain real property owners 65 years of age or over, will be studied by the Tax Base Committee and a report as to its findings will be presented to the Board of Supervisors at the August meeting.

On motion of Majority Leader Peter Savago (R), New Paltz, the board on the correct procedure to refer the matter to the committee for study.

A resolution by Supervisor George Majestic (D), Gardiner, which called for the county attorney to prepare an ordinance or resolution and to "advise" the board on the correct procedure to enact a new county law providing for the partial tax exemption of real property owned by certain persons with limited income who are 65 or over" was defeated by a party vote.

Republican members of the board voted a solid 19 against and the Democrats voted 10 for the resolution.

The resolution was lost after Supervisor Douglas Dye (R) Town of Kingston, had suggested the resolution be withdrawn. In view of the passage of the Savago resolution referring the matter to the Tax Base Study Committee, the Majestic resolution was called "redundant."

Majestic said his Town Board had adopted a similar resolution which he said was necessary in order to take advantage of the permissive legislation. Majestic said his resolution did not pledge the board to adoption of the exemption plan, but made possible preparation of a proposed ordinance or special law which would be studied before final action was taken.

Date for a public hearing on the tentative Ulster County Community College budget for 1966-67 was set for July 25 at 8 p. m. at the board of supervisors rooms. Copies of the proposed budget will be available in a day or two.

Pass Torrance Request

The board approved a request from District Attorney Joseph P. Torrance for additional funds to operate his department for the balance of the year. It was noted that there had been considerable unforeseen expenses. One item was the $4,423.04 for extradition of Raymond G. Rickard, Jr., from India. He was wanted for first degree murder. Another item was the printing of a case on appeal which ran close to $1,000.

The board authorized an additional appropriation in the amount of $13,144.98.

To the board denied the application of Sheriff William B. Martin for $10,000 in additional funds to increase his force during the summer months. Sheriff Martin had requested the additional funds in order to establish patrols in certain areas of the county which are not now closely patrolled. He requested that the funds be provided so that summer patrols might cover the areas during weekends. Mentioned in his request were areas of the Town of Saugerties and in Southern Ulster.

Communications were read from residents of the Town of Wawarsing and from West Saugerties and Blue Mountain areas of the Town of Saugerties favor (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

Leads Are Only Meagre In Massacre at Dorm; Area Dazed by Tragedy

CHICAGO (AP) — Police hoped a petite Filipino girl would be well enough today to tell them the details of the night of horror when eight of her girl friends were butchered. Her dark, wide-set eyes, first beheld the nightmare scene—but she was too hysterical to give a coherent account.

Heavily Sedated

Corazon Amurao, 23, an exchange student, is the only witness and survivor of the slaughter during Wednesday night of eight student nurses in a town house that served as a dormitory. She was heavily sedated after giving a fragmentary account of the night.

Charge Man In Plattekill Kidnaping

A 30-year-old Washington, D. C. man was in the Ulster County jail in lieu of $10,000 bail in connection with the alleged kidnaping of his former wife and six children from their Plattekill home on Monday.

State Police Senior BCI Investigator Edward Shannon identified the accused man as Rafael Robert Rivas, 30 of 2225 F Street, Northwest, Washington.

Hearing Saturday

Rivas is slated for a preliminary hearing Saturday at 10 a. m. before Justice of the Peace Linn Baker, Town of Lloyd.

According to Investigator Shannon, Rivas came to the attention of area authorities in August, 1965, when he was accused of beating his wife, Olga, 30, inflicting bodily injuries that necessitated hospitalization.

Shannon said that the woman appears "terrified with fright" when she sees Rivas, and last Monday Rivas reportedly went to the Plattekill residence of Mrs. Rivas and the six children and kidnaped them.

Select Rondout Advisory Group, Self-Help Theme

Local needs and general procedure of the anti-poverty program were dealt with at a Thursday night meeting called by the Ulster County Community Action Committee at the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway and an advisory committee was named.

Committee Members

On the committee are: Edward Parker, of 44 Abell Street, a teacher at the Highland State Training School, the Rev. Phillip N. Saunders, minister of the Central Baptist Church; Joseph Lawson, of 409 Foxhall Avenue; Emma Medley, of 34 Murray Street and Mrs. Anna Jackson, of 239 Catherine Street.

The theme of the meeting was self-help, and the note was struck early by Bernhardt S. Kramer, regional representative of the State Office of Economic Opportunity, as he explained how the Economic Opportunity Act stressed getting to the source of problems by local action groups.

cut hair, slender and about six feet tall.

"I could fill Soldier Field with men who fit that description," Flanagan said. But, he added, Miss Amurao said she could identify the killer.

Her story, a sweat-soaked man's undershirt, and the blood-splashed, clothing-strewn house full of fingerprints were the pitifully meagre leads.

The nurses were slain one by one — by strangling stabblings or both. One girl's windpipe, carotid artery and jugular vein were cut. Tests to find if the girls were sexually molested were incomplete, although one girl was naked and five others in various stages of undress.

"We've got a subanimal here," said Police Cmdr. Francis Flanagan of the killer. "I've never seen anything more horrible than this."

Miss Amurao escaped the massacre by rolling under a bed. She lay there, unmoving, until 5 a. m., when the ringing of an alarm clock shattered the deadly silence.

Thinking that the noise might have frightened away the murderer, she waited another 20 minutes or so, then wriggled free from strips of bed sheeting with which she had been bound. She stumbled to a second-floor bedroom window and burst outside to a ledge, screaming for help.

Police talked to Miss Amurao for an hour, but she was so hysterical that doctors cut off the questioning.

Only the girl and the killer know the answers to these questions.

What did the intruder look like?

—How did he enter? Leave?

—How did he conduct the mass slaughter without neighbors hearing even a single outcry?

—Why did Miss Amurao, cowering a few yards away, hear no scream?

—That's what's giving us a tough time," Flanagan said. "She seems to have totally lost recall from the time she went under the bed."

From the girl's fragmentary account, police searched for a man with short, probably crew-

Nab 3 Men In Esopus Burglary

Three Brooklyn men, two of them at liberty on high bail in connection with major felonies in New York County, were taken into custody on Thursday by State Police and city detectives, who had been attracted to the trio by suspicious actions of the occupants of a 1964 Cadillac.

The timely arrest of the trio is understood to have blocked other crimes.

Break-in at Port Ewen

The three men are accused of burglarizing the Port Ewen residence of Murray Amerling, owner of Amerling Volkswagen, Inc., now located on Albany Avenue, Town of Ulster.

Senior BCI Investigator Edward Shannon, who figured in the apprehension of the three men with Senior Investigator Michael Lisman, said the men booked were:

Vincent John Lupo, 41, of 160 Wilson Avenue, Brooklyn, a tool and die maker, who authorities said served 7½ years in Sing Sing Prison for armed robbery and is free in $7,500 bail in New York County on a charge of possessing stolen property.

Fasquale Joseph Pasqua, 50, of 25 Boreum Street, Brooklyn, a mechanic who authorities said is free in $30,000 bail in New York County for armed robbery.

Samuel Weiss, 45, a furrier, of 2770 West 5th Street, Brooklyn, whose background and activities are being checked with FBI records, to determine if he has a prior police record.

Investigator Shannon said the men were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan, Town of Kingston, late Thursday, on charges of third (Continued on Page 8, Col. 5)

114 Missions in Viet Set Record; Engage MIGs Again

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. jets brought the 17-month air war against North Viet Nam to a new high Thursday with a record 114 missions. Communist MIGs clashed with the American raiders four times.

During the day of furious action, U.S. Air Force and Navy jets also dodged surface-to-air missiles and reported knocking out a major bridge on the railroad line connecting Hanoi with Red China.

"It was a big day in the North," a U.S. spokesman said today.

In two encounters with MIGs near Hanoi, U.S. Air Force fighters shot down two late-model MIGs. These kills were announced within a few hours of the action, but the Navy disclosed today that three F8 Crusaders of the 7th Fleet aircraft carrier Oriskany were attacked by two MIGs 26 miles southeast of Hanoi.

One MIG and one Crusader were damaged but neither plane went down, a spokesman said. In a fourth encounter, two MIGs made a firing pass at a flight of F105 Air Force Thunderchiefs and then fled without scoring hits, a U.S. spokesman said.

The Thunderchiefs were attacking a missile site about 40 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The U.S. spokesman said a flight of F4 Phantom jets from the carrier Ranger was fired upon by two ground-to-air missiles 30 miles southeast of Hanoi. He said the 36-foot long missiles exploded harmlessly well away from the U.S. planes.

Air Force F105 pilots reported destroying the Dap Cau railroad-highway bridge 19 miles northeast of Hanoi. The spokesman said aerial photographs showed the two center spans of the six-span steel bridge were dropped into the Cau River.

The heavy air attacks on North Viet Nam Thursday included strikes at five radar sites at scattered points. U.S. pilots also claimed destruction of (Continued on Page 12, Col. 8)

Sweltering Spree Lets Up, Good Weekend Weather Due

Sunny days and cool nights was the pleasant forecast this morning by the Albany Weather Bureau after the recent heat binge during which time a new record for the date was set locally.

Even yesterday's high of 92 was a welcome drop and the mercury finally plunged to 58 degrees at 4:45 a. m. today, according to the city engineer's office. The temperature was clocked at 72 this morning at 10 o'clock.

A warmer trend was forecast in Albany for the Hudson Valley area early next week with some spotty rainfall thrown in for good measure.

But the best news was for sunny days and cool nights for

Meanwhile, the sweltering stuff continued to keep its grip on some areas of the nation. In St. Louis and surrounding areas, where 124 heat-attributed deaths have been recorded since last Friday, the Weather Bureau has predicted the seventh straight day of temperatures of 100 degrees or more.

Baltimore has had nine successive days in the 90s.

The 100-degree heat covered the southern half of the nation Thursday from the desert Southwest to the Atlantic Seaboard.

Accepts Post in Morristown

Dean Masten Resigns From County College

Dr. Sherman Masten, dean of Ulster Community College since January of 1963, has tendered his resignation and will accept the post of president of Morris Community College, Morristown, N. J., in September.

Dr. Dale B. Lake, president, said he accepted the resignation with "deep regret." Dr. Masten has played a major role in the development of Ulster Community College since its inception in School No. Six in January of 1963, Dr. Lake said.

"He set up 15 different curricula in the past three years, Dr. Lake said. During his tenure as dean, we've seen the college grow from 193 full time students in September of 1963 to 700 admissions for the fall term this year. We wish him the best of luck and continued success in his new post in New Jersey."

In a letter dated July 6 to Dr. Lake, Dr. Masten expressed his regret upon leaving Ulster

Community College saying, "Although I look forward to the new challenge I will miss greatly the fine people I have been associated with in Ulster County."

Dr. Masten attributed much of the success of Ulster Community College to Dr. Lake whom Dr. Masten characterized as a "vigorous, hard worker who is primarily responsible for the public acceptance of the college."

As president of the yet to be built Morris Community College, Dr. Masten will be working in a county of about 370,000, nearly triple the population of Ulster County. Morristown is in northern New Jersey, about 30 miles from New York City.

According to Dr. Masten, the fact the Morristown's college was brand new was one of the things that moved him to accept the position as president. "As president I'll be able to play a

Habernig pointed out that with respect to hospitalization costs, the program provides payment for covered hospital services for the first 60 days of hospitalization in a spell of illness, except for the first $40. For the next 30 days of hospitalization, the program pays for all covered services except for $10 per day. Shawangunk Area Tops List

Chances Remain Good For Prison in County

It was announced today by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County that there is still a good possibility that a new State Correctional facility may be located in Ulster County in the near future. According to Assemblyman Wilson, he has been assured by New York State Department of Correction that when the proposed state prison is to be constructed, the location which will be given first consideration will be in the vicinity of the present Wallkill Prison in the Town of Shawangunk.

When the question of building a new correctional institution was first raised Assemblyman Wilson had urged that the Department of Correction locate the facility in Ulster County on the basis that it would be far less expensive for the state to construct the prison in an area where there were already existing facilities. At the request of Wilson, a survey was made of possible sites in Ulster County, and it was decided that the best location would be on land adjoining the Wallkill Prison.

According to Assemblyman Wilson, a sum of $10 million dollars had been allocated in the current state budget for the construction of the new prison, but that the funds had been deleted by the Democrat-controlled Assembly Ways and Means Committee. The Assemblyman noted, however, that one million dollars had been restored in the supplemental budget for preliminary work on the proposed prison, and that he would continue to press for the location of the prison in the county when the final decision was made to construct the new facility.

Assemblyman Wilson pointed out that, at present, the state's requirements for correctional facilities are apparently being met by existing institutions, but that there will be a need for expansion in the next few years due

Buffalo Area Incident Cited As Campaign on Pornography

By DONALD BATTLE
Associated Press Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 17-year-old former seminarian walked into a nearby North Tonawanda drug store, picked up a couple of "girlie" magazines, thumbed through them and then asked the clerk how much they cost.

He paid for the magazines, walked outside and was spotted by his mother.irate that the dealer would sell her son magazines she contended were saturated with scantily clothed women and suggestive literature, Mrs. Margaret Sullivan filed a complaint against the dealer based on a seldom-used state law tarring the sale of pornographic literature to youths under 18 years old.

Scored by Parents

Mrs. Sullivan's action was criticized by some parents. One suggested she should have taken her son, Bill, behind the woodshed and paddled him. Others praised her.

But what many did not know was that the sale and the court complaint was another step in a campaign to discourage dealers in the North Tonawanda area from distributing such magazines to youths. Simply put, the campaign consists of visiting the dealer, educating him about the law, and then prosecuting him if the magazines continue to be sold to underaged boys and girls.

Mrs. Sullivan's complaint was heard and the dealer was convicted in what was believed to be the first court case Upstate involving Section 484i of the state Penal Law. The section became effective July 1, 1965.

Spearheading the drive in Tonawanda and North Tonawanda is a young, Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. John J. Dunnigan, assistant pastor of Ascension Church, North Tonawanda.

He explained that local groups had visited newstands and other establishments, urging the proprietors to take the magazines off the stands. "Most were glad to do it," he said.

Refused to Comply

A few refused, claiming that distributors forced them to take the girlie magazines or face not getting other periodicals. Father Dunnigan said the decent-literature groups quickly pointed out to these retailers there was a state law against forcing such literature on dealers.

"After visiting a few dealers six or seven times, we believed that prosecution would be the only solution," Father Dunnigan said.

Since that initial prosecution in North Tonawanda in May and its publicity, other groups, consisting mainly of parents, have formed in Buffalo and Niagara falls.

Seven dealers in the Buffalo area were visited and served complaints. The Erie County district attorney assigned one man to pursue pornographic prosecution. Hearings for the complaints were set for September. The dealers complained, saying they were "only trying to make a living."

Is Unconstitutional

Herold P. Fahringer Jr., a lawyer representing the dealers and who has represented Empire News Co., a wholesale distributor, contends the law is unconstitutional because he said it was so vague that a man reading it would not know what he could or could not sell. Fahringer also argues that prior court decisions have ruled that girlie magazines were not obscene.

Fahringer said that it was up to the prosecution to prove that the defendant or dealer knew that the youth was under 18. "Believe me, most dealers do not want these kids in their establishments, buying these books," Fahringer said. "There are enough adults who will buy them."

Hoover, Bobby and Limits

Eavesdropping Report Leaves Three Questions Unanswered

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — The report filed by the Justice Department with the Supreme Court this week on a 1963 eavesdropping case leaves at least three big questions unanswered:

When did the department first give FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover authority to approve the installation of "bugging" devices?

Did Robert F. Kennedy, who became attorney general in 1961, personally give Hoover the green light to continue FBI eavesdropping practices?

Start of Practice?
What are the specific limits to the range of cases in which the FBI feels justified in "bugging" suspects in the interest of "national security"?

On the first point, the memorandum filed by Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall at the court's request in the Fred B. Black Jr. case said only that the "practice" was "in effect for a period of years prior to 1963."

Does that mean the practice started under Kennedy, under his immediate—and Republican—predecessors, William P. Rogers and Herbert Brownell, or earlier than that? The department did not say.

On the second point, Kennedy's office said Thursday the New York Democratic senator has said he "did not know of the existence or use of the listening device" planted in Black's Washington hotel suite.

Several Possibilities
The department's vagueness may suggest the FBI was operating under general, rather than specific, authority. It may suggest, too, a lack of complete coordination between the FBI and other segments of the Justice Department on how the FBI obtains certain information.

Says Authority There
On the third point, Marshall's memorandum said Hoover had the authority to approve the installation of eavesdropping devices "for intelligence (and not evidentiary) purposes when required in the interest of internal security or national safety, including organized crime, kidnapping and matters wherein human life might be at stake."

The memorandum said Black, a public relations man, at the time of the 1963 bugging was being investigated for "possible affiliation with organized criminal activity." It added that this is "not intended to suggest that any wrongdoing" on the part of Black was uncovered by the monitoring.

The memorandum noted that in 1965, under President Johnson's orders, the use of listening devices was prohibited "in all instances other than those involving the collection of intelligence affecting the national security."

Plans Relatively Broad
For each exception, the Marshall memorandum said, "The specific authorization of the attorney general must be obtained."

The Johnson-directed guideline of "national security" appears stricter than the old one of "internal security or national safety." But both are relatively broad. Marshall's memorandum does not seem to clarify the specific situations that would fall under it.

Cloudy, too, is the authority for the general eavesdropping practice.

Marshall specifically said "no specific statute or executive order was relied upon in the installation of the listening device in question."

He noted, however, that federal law gives the attorney general "the authority to appoint officials for the detection and prosecution of crimes against the United States."

The case focuses on a problem that is particularly perplexing in a society which puts great stock in the right to privacy.

Couple, Boy Killed In Upstate Crash

HORNELL, N.Y. (AP) — A husband and wife and their 3-year-old son were killed Thursday night and five other children were injured when an automobile overturned on a rural road at Hartsville, three miles south of here.

The dead were: Henry Wilson, 48, of Hornell, his wife, Sylvia, 28, and their son, Thomas.

Four other Wilson children, ranging in age from 4 to 9, were injured, as were Sherry Kries, 16.

The Kries girl and Calvin Wilson, 4, were reported in serious condition at Strong Memorial Hospital in Rochester. The others, in St. James Mercy Hospital here, were less seriously hurt.

The Wilson address was RD 1.

HINTS FROM Heloise

A super-duper way to store your wigs is to put your wig block on the end of a plumber's plunger!

I like to use a short-handled one for this. The suction cup will hold it in place on a shelf, or in a closet, if you don't have a wig box.

Mrs. H. W.

Yes, Mrs. H. W., you're exactly right. A woman who sells and styles wigs, told me that she also uses the longest-handled "plumber's friend" she could find when she sets a wig. She does it sitting down, the rubber suction part on the floor, the stick between her knees, and the wig block on the handle. There is a hole in the bottom of the wig block that exactly fits the plunger handle. This way, the rollers can be in her lap while she dresses the wig.

She also uses her "plumber's friend" to plow on the dressing table, put the hair dryer cap over the whole caboodle and dries away.

Here's something else I learned if you set your own wig: If you do not wear it often, leave the rollers in the wig until you are going to use it. The humidity and moisture in the air sometimes makes a wig droop.

If you like to keep it set at all times, she suggested that as soon as it is perfectly set and dried, you tie one of those thin plastic bags from the cleaners over the top of the wig. It will keep out the moisture.

Now wasn't that cute? Heloise

Dear Heloise: I have a little trick for parents who take small children to church (or any meeting) where they must be quiet.

I take along a few pipe cleaners for them to play with. These cleaners can be twisted into all sorts of shapes, and if dropped they don't make any noise.

Lonesome Grandma

Dear Heloise: Some breads come in plastic bags with a little piece of covered wire wrapped around one end to keep the bag closed.

These bags are simply wonderful to take along whenever you go visiting, to put baby's wet or soiled diapers into, using the wire to close the bag.

Simply shake out the bread crumbs, fold the bag and put the wire around it so both bag and wire will be together and ready when you want to use them.

Dear Heloise: This morning as I was making my lunch, I started to cut some cheese.

Since there was no cheese cutter around, I grabbed the potato peeler and it worked just fantastically. The cheese didn't gum up and was sliced nice and thin.

Wiser Now

Dear Heloise: Here's a hint for handicapped persons...

I made a back washer by shredding six old nylon stockings and placing them in the MIDDLE of another stocking, and sewing along both sides of the wad of inserted nylon to hold it in place.

I hold one end of the hose in each hand when using it to wash my back, pulling it back and forth as I do when drying my back with a towel.

Birdie

Dear Heloise: What to do with your corsage or boutonniere after the party or prom?

Put it on a small platter, saucer or pickle dish (I use the oval dish from a gravy boat), add a little water and place in the refrigerator.

When you set the table for lunch and dinner the next day, use it as a centerpiece, then put back in the refrigerator until the next meal.

Usually the flowers will keep for a whole week this way.

This is a nice way to enjoy your flowers so much longer and to remember that special occasion.

Mrs. Oscar P. Schwefel

Dear Heloise: When we went camping, I took along my 18-month-old's one-piece snow suit to slip him into at night, and he had his own sleeping bag.

No fear of the wee one getting cold in the night.

Clare Timmins

Dear Heloise: A discarded sponge rubber curler, attached to the end of a dowel stick, is wonderful for dusting those out-of-the-way places such as behind dressers, pictures, tops of doors, window sills, etc.

Linkletter Says Pitfalls Present In Beauty Judging

By JACK LINKLETTER (For Cynthia Lowry)

EDITOR'S NOTE—This young son of Art Linkletter has made a specialty of a job most men would enjoy holding. But beauty contest hosting isn't all girl watching, and here Jack tells a few of the possible pitfalls.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I will emcee the Miss Universe pageant Saturday for the third time.

To the average red-blooded American Male, this may sound like the softest touch in television. But the truth—and I hope my wife is reading—is that there are as many headaches as rewards to the job.

Time Element Vital
First, it is my responsibility, with the help of some able clock watchers, to see to it that the telecast lasts just 45 seconds short of 90 minutes. This means getting 70 girls to be on time.

Any man who has waited for his wife on a rainy street corner knows this is impossible. There are a few things you can't expect a woman to keep, and time is one of them.

If the show lags, it's not so bad. I simply persuade the girls to romp through their final paces at the speed of a Marine drill team. If we are under time, however, I try to pad the show by interviewing the new Miss Universe.

Even two or three minutes can be an eternity when you are interrogating a weeping, hysterical beauty queen in a language she doesn't understand and she's answering in a language you don't understand.

Some of the European girls have at least a passing knowledge of English. But others, I've learned, come prepared with only a few English phrases, such as "Hello," and "Thank you very much." These don't make much of an interview.

Another Personal Problem
My most pressing problem, however, is a personal one. Like any other man, I find myself choosing favorites. It may be a girl who smiles the way my wife does, or who brushes back her hair in a particularly appealing fashion.

This is fine for the viewer at home. But I'm supposed to be impartial.

Usually I manage to mask such feelings. Two years ago, however, I found myself captivated by Corrina Tsopei of Greece. Here was the sort of classic beauty I, as a schoolboy, had pictured Helen of Troy to be.

The envelope containing the name of the winner was handed me. I glanced at it, then looked up. There were 15 pairs of eyes focused on mine, searching for the answer. As my eyes met Corrina's, she burst into a broad smile, followed by a torrent of tears. I hadn't said a word, but Miss Greece knew her name was on that little scrap of paper.

I like to believe that if another girl had won, neither the tone of my voice nor the look on my face would have betrayed any disappointment. That wouldn't have been fair.

Which brings up a question I'm asked very often. I am paid to do this show, rather than the other way around. That is not one of my problems.

THERE'S PLENTY TO DO

Most parents are familiar with that common refrain among children when told to busy themselves: "But there's nothing to do!" Generally it turns out that there are plenty of things to do.

Yet there are many thousands of children whose emotional and intellectual development is stunted by exactly this — a lack of interesting things to do. It is for them that Project Head Start was undertaken. All over the United States, thanks to this imaginative pre-school program, new worlds are being opened for youngsters whose summer experiences might otherwise be dull, repetitious and without challenge to the mind and spirit.

The children in a Head Start class may be taken to a shopping center, or to a dairy or the zoo or even to a farm where they can pick corn or fruit. They may be given a romp in the spray of a garden hose, or shown about numbers and money values through play in a make-believe store. The possibilities are endless, and for deprived children almost everything comes as a revelation.

And then the children "socialize" with the teacher, discussing their experiences. That, too, is a learning experience — an "expanding" experience. The same goes for the teacher's reading of stories. It all adds up to preparation for the more formal educational experiences to come. Head Start, in its small way, is one of the best things that ever happened to American public school education.

DE GAULLE'S PRECEDENT

President DeGaulle's effort to gain closer relations with Russia may, like other moves of his, be inspired by an episode in French history. Whether he is following a sound guideline in this case is, to put it temperately, a moot question.

Just 75 years ago France startled Europe by forming an alliance with Russia. Russia under the czars typified, for most of the world, all that was repulsive in tyranny. It seemed strange that a republic like France should choose such an ally.

The reason then was to gain strength against an overshadowing and menacing Germany, which had increased its strength by forming a triple alliance with Austria and Italy. This division of Europe into two unfriendly groups of nations did much toward bringing about the first world war less than a quarter of a century later.

Now again France, having rejected a closer grouping with the European Common Market countries and with Great Britain, is trying to escape isolation by friendship with Russia, a country with which France has little in common. This may prove to be one of DeGaulle's less inspired efforts to magnify France.

GOOD ADVICE IN ONE WORD

It took only one word for a big league baseball player to pinpoint the cause of much of our juvenile delinquency problem.

Chico Salmon, a versatile and talented young man who performs admirably at almost any infield spot the Cleveland Indians assign him, was asked what he considers the most difficult position.

"Sitting," said Chico, who came to play and not to adorn the bench.

Chico uttered a philosophical mouthful. Give a youngster — or anyone else — too much time to loaf and you are encouraging trouble.

Chico Salmon should be given still another assignment — to speak to PTA groups and high school assemblies.

RULES OF THE ROAD

During 1965, New York State highway accidents killed 2,738 persons and injured 330,449 in 455,363 collisions.

In 399,113 of these accidents, some violation of the Vehicle and Traffic Law was a contributing factor. In the balance of accidents, no violation was apparent. Possibly the driver fell asleep at the wheel or became ill, something went wrong with the car equipment or the weather and road conditions were poor.

In reporting these statistics, the Department of Motor Vehicles points out that it is quite obvious that the greatest portion

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

THE ISSUES WON'T STAY PUT

President Johnson is no longer pulling those public opinion polls out of his pocket to show how well he is doing with the people. Instead, he is taking action to affect the polls of October, which are the ones that are going to sway the Congressional elections in November.

The President's calculated risks are momentarily in his favor. In Congressional district after district in mid-June private polls indicated much voter dissatisfaction with the slow pace of the Vietnam war. For example, in the Waterbury, Connecticut, area of Representative John S. Monagan, a Democrat, two out of three respondents were for bombing the oil depots in North Vietnam and four out of five for blockading Haiphong. Polls taken in regions as far apart as California, Virginia, Arkansas, and Alaska indicated that Connecticut's preferences were also the preferences of the west and the south. But, with the recent intensive bombing of the North Vietnamese oil tanks, every last one of the polls that indicated frustration with the Administration's handling of the war is, at least for the short run, obsolete.

Fearing this development, Senator Javits of New York warned Republicans some time ago not to count on the war issue next autumn. Inflation, so Javits, Dirksen and other old hands were saying was a better bet. But now the possibility looms that the inflation issue will be snatched from the eager hands of Republican aspirants.

The economy, indeed, is in a strange period in which it is impossible to determine which way the currents are flowing. There are tidal rips and strong back eddies, and it is easy to mistake one for the other. The tax for fiscal 1966 has been so good that, as these lines are being written, it looks as though the predicted estimate of a $6.5 billion federal deficit would be something less than $3 billion. The President is unwilling to cut back on Great Society projects for 1967, but even as he spends more on people who vote he is sternly demanding an elimination of waste in the Washington bureaucracies, whose employees won't be voting in Connecticut or California.

Smaller federal deficits of course, mean a lessening of inflationary pressures. They also mean that no tax increases will be needed before election day, which takes a lot of politics off the hook.

The news from Detroit, telling of a heavy hang-over of unsold 1966 automobiles, is more deflationary than inflationary. And the University of Michigan consumer research center indicates that car sales for 1967 may fall considerably short of the nine million that Detroit has been coming to think of as its rightful annual due. The tight mortgage money means that fewer homes will be built in the coming year, which means that upward pressure on a lot of prices, from furniture to washing machines, will diminish.

With "escalation" an accomplished fact in Southeast Asia, and with a paradoxical cooling off of the economy at home, the Republicans may have to search for new issues. What will they be? Vietnam must remain an enigma until the result of the stepped-up bombing raids are known. If the Vietcong fails to win ground victories during the monsoon, LBJ will have a card in his hand. But if there is no concurrent move in Hanoi toward negotiation, and the hawks begin calling for still stronger methods to end the war, the card may not be worth what it should be. The Republicans, if they insist on making the war a campaign issue, are going to have to play it ear. They could be caught out as Senator Capehart and Senator Keating were caught out on the Cuban missile issue, for a President who is also our Commander-in-Chief can always act in ways to trump any armchair strategist's ace.

As for the state of the economy in November, we could have a painful fall-off in consumer purchases even without increasing unemployment. Simply through a diminution in take-home pay. Thousands of workers are now dependent for their luxuries and their installment credit payments on their overtime income. Once these workers are cut back to a normal forty-hour week, the drop in purchasing power would ripple through the economy. It would be a switch if Republicans were to win office in November on the issue of recession, not inflation.

Anemia Is Chief Danger Of Recurrent Nosebleeds

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I am a housewife. About six months ago I had a nosebleed. I stopped it by pressing on my nose for five minutes but about one month I get another nosebleed. Is this serious?

A—In some women a nosebleed that recurs every month is a part of the menstrual cycle. If this is your trouble, it is not serious but your doctor or a nose specialist should examine you to see if there is a condition that can be corrected. The danger from frequently recurring nosebleeds is anemia. This type of anemia, however, responds readily to treatment.

Q—A terrible odor comes from my nose. My doctor says I have ozema. Can anything be done for it?

A—Ozema is a severe chronic rhinitis characterized by a wasting of the nasal mucous membrane and often accompanied by a loss of the sense of smell. The cause is unknown. There is no cure but it can sometimes be controlled by antibiotics and the use of saline or tolazoline to improve the circulation in the diseased tissues.

Q—What is septal deviation? Is there any treatment for it?

A—This is a bending of the septum (partition between the nostrils) to one side. The result is a partial or complete blocking of the nostril. It can be relieved by removing the cartilage in the septum.

Q—Can a chronic postnasal drip cause hoarseness? What could cause paralysis of the larynx? Is there any treatment for it?

A—If the postnasal drip is caused by a chronic low-grade infection, this could extend to the larynx and cause hoarseness. An allergic postnasal drip would be less likely to do so.

Paralysis of the larynx may be caused by cutting the nerve supply to the larynx (one of the hazards of the removal of a goiter) or a tumor of the vocal cords. Many persons with paralysis of the vocal cord one side have been benefited by an injection of Teflon into the affected cord.

Q—I have heard that quinine is being used in the treatment of heart trouble as well as for malaria. Is this true?

A—Quinine has been used to treat attacks of very rapid pulse but for this purpose the closely related quinidine is preferred.

Q—My son has abdominal epilepsy. He doesn't have convulsions but has pain in his abdomen. What is the cause and the best treatment?

A—This disease is characterized by abnormal electric brain waves and abdominal pains that are relieved by the anticonvulsant drugs given for epilepsy. The cause is unknown.

of the accidents might not have occurred if the drivers had followed the letter of the law. It is believed that motorists do not deliberately set out to break the rules of the road, but they do not know or have forgotten those rules which govern driving.

Starting today The Freeman publishes the first of a series of five articles covering the common rules of the road which, if obeyed by motorists and pedestrians alike, would prevent most accidents.

"You Are Not Alone"

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LOS ANGELES (NEA)—The special light that sets off a presidential candidate follows Michigan's Republican Gov. George W. Romney at this National Governors Conference. But he is already finding that it is a somewhat pitiless glare.

Last year in Minneapolis, Romney stumbled badly in his major press conference appearance. Not even a machete would have cut through some of his tangled answers. His own aides went away muttering.

This time, under questioning and in conference discussions, his performance generally has been a good deal crisper, tidier and more punchy. Yet his aides are more than a little annoyed to discover that veteran candidate watchers, viewing him now as a presidential prospect, have raised their gauges of judgment. By these higher standards they still pronounce him a puzzling figure.

Answering questions after a speech at a hotel a mile from this conference setting, Romney on the vital subject of Viet Nam—got caught in another of those verbal thickets he has plunged into so often before. Reports had it that his own assistants, playing back a tape hours later, could not understand his answer.

Word filtering out of closed-door sessions suggested that not Romney but lame-duck Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania was the Republican listened to most carefully. The candidate-watchers insisted this demonstrated a lack of "presidential-style" authority on the Michigan governor's part.

No one here seems to question that the handsome, aggressive, firm-voiced Romney looks like a president, just as he looks like a governor. But many are daring to suggest that his obvious star quality is somehow flawed. Nevertheless, some of the watchers concede that they may be applying standards too stiff to be politically realistic. A good many women who sat in on his press conference this time thought him both impressive and attractive. Their responses could be a sounder measure of Romney's present public status.

If any of Romney's moderate-minded Republican colleagues still have any hobbling doubts about his suitability for high office, they do not seem ready to toss him aside as their candidate for the 1968 presidential nomination.

In fact, a prominent GOP governor told this reporter privately that when the party's governors convene in December, a month after the 1966 elections, they may very well launch Romney on his way with an overwhelming on-the-record endorsement. Nothing like it has been tried in modern Republican history.

Such action would not come of course, if the governor failed to win re-election in Michigan by a thumping majority. But there really are no other hampering provisos.

Though it would obviously help his status as a vote-getter and a party man, it simply is not true that Romney "must" pull in U. S. Sen. Robert Griffin, now merely an appointee, and several congressional candidates to prove himself with his potential backers for the nomination.

In the eyes of the moderates hungering for a candidate, George Romney is the only man who has "position." He is the only one they see who has the presidential look, is a fairly well-proven vote-getter, has some seasoning and evidently good record in government, and wants the big job.

That "inner logic of politics" compels their focus upon him despite any visible flaws, despite any possible failure next autumn to pull in other Republicans with him.

He may not be quite the commanding figure they would like; he may still flounder from time to time in discussing major issues (especially foreign); he may still disturb them a little with his dominating religious bent and his less-than-perfect grasp of politics. It could all be beside the point. They need him.

It would be a mistake, however, to assume that Romney's political life today is so charmed that nothing could do him in. The harsher critics at this conference believe he might yet kick away his presidential chances if he does not soon exhibit greater knowledgeability and a sense of command in foreign affairs.

The odds run strongly the other way. The moderates have no real taste for Richard Nixon. In addition, they look upon such potential new GP winners as Charles Percy of Illinois and Ronald Reagan of California as likely to be too green and too preoccupied with first-term duties to be turned to except in grave emergency. Romney is their man.

Claims Discussions on CIA Committee as Wasted Effort

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Although the Senate held a session in secret for several hours on Thursday—something it rarely does—to debate a proposal to enlarge the committee which deals with the Central Intelligence Agency, the raising of the issue itself was a wasted effort.

For, even if the Senate hadn't voted, as it did, to shelve the measure, the President of the United States is empowered by constitutional precedents to decide to what committee of Congress, if any, he wishes to give information concerning the operations of any executive agency involving national security.

Two subcommittees — composed of members of the Armed Services Committee and the Appropriations Committee — have been carrying on satisfactorily the relations between the Senate and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Senate Is Divided

The senate, however, is divided today between those who consider themselves authorized not just to "advise" but to make American foreign policy and those who feel a sense of responsibility to the president as the person charged by the constitution with the conduct of relations with the other governments in the world. It was evident from the start that the purpose of the move to enlarge the committee was primarily to get information to use in ways which could unwittingly do damage to American foreign relations. Again and again, news and radio dispatches in recent weeks from Peiping and Moscow have reported how gratified the communists were to be able to publicize the dissent expressed in the senate as an indication that this nation is not behind its government and will force a surrender in Vietnam.

But even if there were no war going on, the restrictions on giving information concerning the Central Intelligence Agency are clear-cut. This was pointed out by Rear Admiral William F. Raborn, who has just retired as the head of the CIA. In an interview published this week in "U. S. News and World Report," he said:

"The national security act makes the director of central intelligence exclusively responsible for protecting the security of the sources and methods of the entire intelligence community. I was authorized by the president and by national security council directives to discuss such matters only with the special subcommittees designated for this purpose, not with any others."

"Q. What is the reason for this limitation?"
"A. It is not arbitrary or bureaucratic—we are safeguarding the lives of trusted agents and are own staff people all over the world who contribute to our government's intelligence objectives."

"We owe it to them to take every precaution to protect them—and we owe it to our government to deny hostile intelligence services even indirect hints or the slightest clues which might enable them to take steps to blunt our intelligence operations, methods and sources.

"Q. Do you mean it is a question of security leaks?"

"A. I prefer to say inadvertent disclosure. Even a professional intelligence officer has to be alert to draw the line between information which helps to evaluate or authenticate a piece of raw intelligence, and information which might point to the source of the method we used to obtain it. The more people who have both types of information the more you multiply the chance that someone will overstep that line by accident."

"Q. How damaging can such disclosures be?"

Destroys The Source

"A. Well, the minute you even hint that you have information the other fellow has been trying to keep secret, it is one of the first principles of the art that he will do everything possible to locate and destroy your source, or disrupt your method of operation. If the opposition is given any clues to help pinpoint the source, the counterintelligence job is that much easier."

The meetings between CIA officials and the existing congressional committees which deal with such matters have been satisfactory under both Republican and Democratic Congresses. Senators have respected the importance of protecting the sources and have recognized that to use in public speeches any information based on CIA data would only impair the usefulness of that organization.

The strangest thing about the whole episode is that, in the midst of a war crisis, some Senators should insist upon any move which, by reason of indiscreet disclosures, could damage the United States abroad. Unfortunately questions like these are not clearly explained to the voters, or they would repudiate at the polls those members of Congress who put their own quest for publicity above the interests of their country.

Irony Is Heaped Upon Tragedy in Death of 8 Girls

By JULES LOH

CHICAGO (AP)—Philip Jordan was engaged to marry Suzanne Farris, a high school chum of his sister Mary Ann.

Daniel Kelly was a former boy friend of Gloria Davy.

A demented killer numbered Suzanne, Mary Ann and Gloria among his eight victims Thursday — and Patrolman Kelly was the first policeman to discover the bodies.

Heinous crimes are like that. Irony heaped on tragedy.

Had Common Bond

Aside from living in the same house — sharing hopes, and textbooks; friends, and cosmetics — the eight girls shared a common bond: Their yearning to serve humanity.

"The enjoyment one gets out of helping others is one that cannot be taken away," wrote Patricia Matussek in her application to the nursing school.

Nina Schmale was no different. On Sundays she helped care for the elderly poor in the DuPage County Home in nearby Winfield.

Nor was Gloria Davy. "She would always do more than her share," said a neighbor, Mrs. Thomas Doolin. "That's the type she was."

That's the type they all were.

Phthoragoras of Greece (about 500 B.C.) was the first to claim that the earth is round.

Friends of the slain girls regarded their deaths as double tragedy — young lives, so full of spirit, confidence, ambition, so senselessly wasted.

Abhors Suffering

"I have never liked to see people suffer," wrote Pamela Wilkening on her application. "A nurse is to help people, and I want to be someone who does this."

Even Chicago police, hardened to the ugliness of murder that occurs in this city on an average of once a day, were unable to discuss the killings with their usual stoicism.

"I've seen more people killed but I've never seen anything more horrible than this," said Police Cmdr. Francis Flanagan. "This is a man who took eight persons, one at a time, and murdered them. I don't know what kind of a human being that is."

But it was the victims more than the crime that caused Flanagan's dismay.

Lovely young girls like Suzanne Farris, who "sat in my back yard about a week ago while we drank some lemonade," recalled a neighbor tearfully. Like Mary Ann Jordan, "the best and sweetest girl you can imagine," said Margaret Brant, who owns the clothing store where Mary Ann worked

Appel Arrested Was Prober for ABC in Gotham

NEW YORK (AP)—Sidney Appel, who was an investigator for New York City's Alcoholic Beverage Control Board for 28 years, has been arrested as a result of a perjury and criminal contempt indictment, Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office reports.

Asst. Dist. Atty. David A. Goldstein said Appel, 58, was arrested Thursday at the Colonial Manor Hotel in Rockville, Md., which he operates. Appel was arraigned in a Rockville court as a fugitive and, after refusing to waive extradition, was released in $2,000 bail, Goldstein said. A hearing was scheduled for Sept. 12.

The case against Appel was described here as an outgrowth of the continuing four-year-old investigation of corruption in the State Liquor Authority under its former administration.

Appel, a lawyer, was dismissed from his $8,000-a-year ABC job in April 1963 after he refused to sign a waiver of immunity before testifying before a grand jury. Signing a waiver would have made Appel liable to possible prosecution on the basis of his testimony. New York State law requires public officials and employees to sign such waivers, on pain of dismissal.

Woodstock News Elections Highlight Recent Meeting of School Board

Election of officers, approval of the treasurer's bond of $200,000 and the resignation of a member were highlights of the recent reorganization meeting of the Board of Education of Onteora Central School District.

Reelected Board President was Philip Gordon, whose executive assistants will include Philip Epstein, vice president; Ralph C. Breakell, district clerk and Superintendent Dr. George R. Sullivan, acting district clerk.

Appointed district treasurer was Jane Silkworth. A treasurer's bond in the amount of $200,000 was approved.

Named school tax collector was George Kirk, and a tax collector's bond of 20 per cent of the tax levy was also approved.

The Board accepted with regret the resignation of Sherman H. Masten, who has accepted an appointment as president of the Morris County College in Morristown, N. J. Resignation is effective Sept. 1.

The Board tabled a request from Wagar and Arra Bus Service, Inc. to approve a withdrawal of the firm's school bus contract bid on Routes 17 and 22. The bus line stated that its $3,975 bid was based on a miscalculation of its figures.

The group moved that Routes 17 and 22 be rebid and Wagar and Arra held responsible for the bidding costs and differential in contract price.

A motion to sell 10 acres of the Gilmor property on the Wittenberg Road to the New York State Conservation Department for $3,000 also carried.

Strike in Third Day
SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A work stoppage by nearly 1,000 employees of the Sanderson-Halcomb Works of the Crucible Steel Co. headed into its third day today, without the sanction of union officials.

The workers, members of Local 1277, United Steel Workers, have remained off the job in an apparent dispute over the company's bonus system and grievance procedures.

Adrian Coldiron, a sub-district director for the steelworker's union, issued a statement Thursday urging the members to return to work. He termed the walkout "unauthorized, illegal and in violation of our labor agreement with Crucible Steel."

Milk Price $4.22
NEW YORK (AP) — Pool milk handlers in the New York-New Jersey milkshed will receive a uniform farm price of $4.22 a hundredweight (46.5 quarts) for milk delivered in June.

The price, announced Thursday by Market Administrator A.J. Pollard, is an increase of 6 cents over the May figure. In June of 1965, the price was $3.73 a hundredweight.

Pollard also announced that the producer butterfat differential for last month is 6.2 cents for each tenth of a pound of fat above or below the 3.5 per cent standard.

Iona Plath Is Weaving Teacher, Regional Center

Dr. Raymond G. Kenyon, regional director Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Educational Center formulated under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 has announced that Mrs. Jay Alan, who currently works under her maiden name, Iona Plath, is associated with the Regional Center's Program in the area of weaving.

The Center has developed, on a pilot basis, a program which allows craft-talented students of two counties, Ulster and Dutchess, to engage in an active craft apprenticeship-type program with some of the leading craftsmen in this region.

Before entering into this unusual program funded by the Federal Government, Miss Plath had extensive education in art at the Chicago Art Institute and the New York Art Students League. In her specialty, weaving, Miss Plath has studied at the Nordiska in Stockholm, Sweden, and has had 20 years of continued experience as a designer for national textile firms. Previous experience and teaching includes School of Art and Design at Corpus Christi, Texas and instructor of weaving at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen.

Teaching Children
At the present time, she is instructing 10 regional children in her own studio. To date, she has seven complete books to her credit, including "Decorative Arts of Sweden," published by Charles Scribner's Sons, "Weaving," published by Fawcett Publications and her latest, "Hand Woven" which went to press this year.

The program will be developed further in such areas as, ceramics, enameling, silversmithing, sculpture and photography. Students selected for the activity have individualized programs developed in conjunction with recognized craftsmen in the Woodstock Area to whom they would, in effect, be apprenticed, and such programs would involve activities of a workshop during the month of July and another workshop during the month of August with fall and spring workshops anticipated for 1966 and 1967.

Uphold Reduced Rail Rates Ruling on Grain

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A three-judge federal court panel has upheld a two-year-old ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) that reduced rail rates on grain shipped east of Pittsburgh.

In doing so Thursday the court dismissed a suit brought by the State of New York, which claimed the ICC's action was "based upon error of fact and law."

Judge Henry K. Friendly of U.S. Circuit Court in New York City wrote in the unanimous decision that the court was "unable to find any basis for invalidating the commission's order."

The case stemmed from an ICC order in 1964 that slashed rail rates on grain and grain products eastbound from Pittsburgh by an average 12.9 p. c.

The reduction put the Pennsylvania city on a competitive level with Buffalo, one of the nation's leading flour-milling centers.

The state's suit was filed Aug. 26, 1964, six months after the ICC ruling, by Atty. Gen. Louis L. Lefkowitz. The City of Buffalo, Erie County and the Buffalo Industrial Progress Council, a group of labor, management and civic interests organized to fight the case, later joined as plaintiffs.

Kiwanis Hear Guest Speaker On Acquisitions

"Acquisitions today are the big thing in American business," said C. Lincoln Christensen, management consultant of Hurley, speaking before Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday.

Christensen is director of his own management consulting firm for the past 19 years, and has served some of the major corporations in the United States.

2,000 Per Year
Many of the giant corporations in the United States have been built through acquisitions, said the speaker, who revealed that approximately 2,000 had taken place last year in major fields. He compared this number with approximately 150 in 1940.

One of the reasons for this development was given in terms of searching for ways to improve operations in an accelerated growth, and also to increase profits. Other factors, said Christensen, that lead to acquisitions was an endeavor to obtain more and better personnel and to level out business. This idea was illustrated by projecting a toy firm whose normal business might be centered around the holiday period and who would need some other type of production to take care of other periods in the year.

The Federal Trade Commission "takes a hard look at acquisitions," according to Christensen, in the light of trade restrictions. The speaker added, however, that only about 1 per cent was challenged.

Outline Factors
Many factors are involved in an acquisition which includes a great deal of searching for strength of operation, the prospects for future earnings and an evaluation of the entire project.

In conclusion, Christensen emphasized the importance of acquisition in the development of "big business" in the country today.

gart was notified and he went to the scene of the blaze to assist. Indian tanks, brooms and rakes were used by firefighters throughout the afternoon.

It was considered the first major fire in the city during the current dry and hot spell, and fire officials throughout the area have issued warnings not to do any unnecessary burning out of doors.

An operator at the County Mutual Aid station reported that Hurley firemen responded to a call at 4:39 a. m. today for a brush fire off Lucas Avenue Extension. Firemen were back in service at 5:22 a. m.

ing the extra summer patrols. A report from the sheriff's committee recommended denial of the funds for the roving patrols and also that a request for transfer of $5,000 from one account to another be denied "until the purpose of the transfer is made known to the Board of Supervisors. The committee also sought clarification of a $4,560 salary item for the jail staff.

"If this man is a part-time cook and a part-time deputy, the Committee directs the sheriff to identify the amount earned for each job on the payroll. If he is not part time he should not be employed as he is in excess of the budget," the report concluded.

Moseley Resigns
Resignation of Dr. Robert F. Moseley of Kingston, a member of the Ulster County Board of Health since its inception in 1946, was received. The resignation became effective July 14. Dr. Moseley in submitting his resignation said, "I appreciate the confidence you have shown in me by reappointing me over the years but I feel the time has now come for me to leave, and I wish therefore to submit my resignation, effective as of this date."

The resignation of Pratt Boice of Lake Katrine as a member of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission was also received. Boice was one of the original members of the commission. On motion of Supervisor Lester S. Davis, (R), Olive, Larry Kelder of the Town of Olive was named to fill the vacancy.

Attorney William D. Brinnier of Saugerties was reappointed a member of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission for a six year term on motion of Supervisor Peter Williams (R), Saugerties.

A resolution offered by Supervisor Majestic (D), Gardiner, to name Neal A. Geller of Town of Rochester to the County Airport and Jetport Commission to succeed the late William Kobelt was referred to committee. Majestic requested that since Geller was a resident of the Town of Rochester that Supervisor Franklin S. Kelder (R), Rochester, be substituted as sponsor of the resolution. Supervisor Joseph Martorana (R), Plattekill, said under procedure names should be submitted to the Industrial Development committee and from that committee a recommended name should come. He so moved and the motion was carried.

Tells of State Aid
A communication was received from Melina Place Hayward, MD, director of Ulster County Mental Health Center, calling attention to new legislation which provides for 75 per cent State Aid reimbursement on the first $100,000 expended for counties with a population under 200,000. Ulster County could qualify.

A communication was received from Ulster County Bar Association relative to the "Assigned Counsel Plan" which was enacted by the board last December. It was noted that after six months the plan had been fairly successful, however, the Bar suggested that a Ulster County Public Defender plan might work out better. It was noted that of the $15,000 appropriation allotted for assigned counsel, about two-thirds had already been expended.

It was moved by Supervisor Savago that the $2,000 salary of the administrator, Judge Joseph D. Saccoman, be made a part of the salary schedule rather than paid on vouchers. Supervisor Majestic, said nothing had been placed in the budget to pay the administrator's salary and he questioned who had made the appointment and fixed the compensation.

Approve Proposal
Supervisor Savago said the board had voted to delegate that authority to the Bar Association and under that delegation of power the Bar Association had made such recommendation. The Savago resolution to place the administrator on a regular payroll basis was approved.

The board adopted a resolution offered by Supervisor Thaddeus Musiakiewicz (R), Ulster, favoring an extension of the time for study of the proposed arterial route which will run through the Town of Ulster adjacent to the shopping center areas. Objection to the present proposed alignment of the arterial route has been voiced by the Town of Ulster Business Men's Association and other residents on the grounds the proposed route does not give access to the shopping areas. The new Route begins at Route 32 after passing through the City of Kingston and runs to the east of the present Route 9-W, by-passing the shopping areas to the south and the 199-209 cloverleaf and continue on north. Lack of access from the proposed arterial route to the shopping areas practically isolates the areas and a large amount of land. Under the proposed plan traffic coming from the north would have to come to a "horn" east of the present Shop-Rite Square, turn and double back north to the shopping areas.

A communication was received from the Ulster Chapter, New York State Society of Professional Engineers, noting the "high professional standards" of Roland H. Green, who recently retired as Ulster County Superintendent of Highways. They suggested his successor be a licensed New York State professional engineer. The law so provides.

Robert Geros and John Fisher of Rutsenville Road, Wallkill, sent a communication relative to the gypsy moth spraying by the Conservation Department. Similar Letters Sent Similar letters were sent to Governor Rockefeller, Senator Robert F. Kennedy and Jacob K. Javits. They noted that "every year the county is supposed to spray for removal of gypsy moths and other insects. For the past two years, they have been spraying only the farmer's fields and not the residents' area. If one wants a spray, they charge a fee of $8, which should not be since the spraying is included in the tax we pay. Now all our plants, shrubs and trees are being destroyed by the moths and insects. We would appreciate it very much if you would give this matter your immediate attention." The matter was referred to the Conservation Department.

On motion of Supervisor William R. West (R), Woodstock, Mrs. Marguerite Isaacs of Woodstock was granted privilege of the floor. Mrs. Isaacs spoke on behalf of conservation. She requested that an appropriation of $165 be made for subscriptions for each supervisor to memberships in National Wildlife Federation in Washington, D. C. She also urged that cats be registered, taxed and be "required" to wear a taxed, belled collar and that both cats and dogs be required to receive rabies inoculation.

Mrs. Isaacs has appeared several times before the board urging conservation and protection of wildlife, including birds as well as raccoons. In her communication she also urged use of a new synthetic sterilization hormone on cats to bring about a reduction in the number of cats. The same plan for birth control, she suggested might also be used on dogs.

The board adjourned at 10:50 p. m.

Man Charged
turnpike, according to Shannon, and near Burlington, N. J. Mrs. Rivas managed to "talk her former husband" into returning to Plattekill.

Probe Report
Meanwhile, state troopers from Kingston and Highland were investigating a report from a Plattekill neighbor of Mrs. Rivas of the alleged kidnapping and alarms were sent out for Rivas' car, which was believed heading toward Washington, where the man resides.

Troopers later arrested Rivas at Plattekill and after questioning him and Mrs. Rivas, authorities booked the man on a kidnapping charge.

Check Two Blazes
Firemen checked a blaze Thursday night in rubbish accumulated in the window well of a lower Broadway building. Sixth Ward Alderman Joseph Epstein, who operates a store at 48 Broadway, reported the fire at 7:28 p. m. and a unit from Central Station responded. The fire was at 44 Broadway. Another call at 8:14 p. m. was for a displaced excavation flare at Prospect and VanDeusen streets. It had apparently been hit by a vehicle. Firemen from Wiltwyck Station responded.

more dominant role in the creation of this new college," he said. "In fact, it was my experience with Dr. Lake in helping build Ulster Community College that was one of the factors in my being chosen for the post in New Jersey. Also there's the fact that it's a step up professionally."

Dr. Masten currently resides in West Hurley with his wife Dorothy and their two sons, Stephen, 18, and Gary, 11. Stephen will be attending his father's alma mater, Wesleyan University, in the fall. Gary is in the sixth grade in Ontario.

Dr. Masten had resided in Long Island most of his life before coming to Ulster Community College. Previous to his appointment at UCCO he was associate dean at Hofstra University. He holds a doctorate degree from New York University.

River Search

from the river bottom in mid-river. Authorities contend that the block might have been used to weight down a sack containing the body of the boy, when it allegedly was dropped from the bridge.

State Police officials consider the block important evidence in the case and they are hopeful that scientific tests of the pieces of bones found Wednesday and Thursday by scuba divers, might prove to be human bone.

In an indictment, Rickard is accused of striking the boy while he was residing with his family at a Lake Katrine Trailer camp in November, 1964. Authorities allege that the former Brooklyn man placed the body in a sack, which was thrown into the river from the bridge.

Authorities launched their investigation of the Rossiello case months ago after a brother of the 2½-year-old boy reportedly told neighbors in Brooklyn that Victor had disappeared. As the inquiry progressed State Police officials began searching for Rickard, a search which extended throughout the country. Investigators learned that Rickard had signed up as a seaman aboard a cargo ship bound for India.

District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca conducted a grand jury investigation and a sealed indictment was subsequently handed up. It was later revealed that Rickard was named defendant in the first degree murder indictment.

Called First Such Extradition
Torraca instituted extradition proceedings after Rickard was taken into custody as he left the cargo ship at Madras, India. A presidential warrant was obtained and armed with that document, Assistant District Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon and Senior Investigator Lisman went to India where they gave testimony at a court hearing.

Rickard was turned over to the custody of Lisman and MacKinnon, who returned him to Ulster County. The extradition from India was reported to be the first ever involving the United States and India.

Reject Appeal
according to Kellar, had formerly stated that he would rather go to jail than pay the tax. He is being backed by the Committee for the Repeal of the Apple Marketing Order. Eugene Imperia, a Madison apple grower, is the chairman.

Kellar claimed that the marketing order was unconstitutional in that money collected from the tax was used to advertise New York State apples.

"No government agency should have the right to force a person to advertise. This is strictly a private matter and should be left to the discretion of the individual."

Kellar also said that the state figures on the number of farmers that approved the referendum in 1959 were completely false. "The state claims 75 per cent of the farmers approved the levy. This is absolutely false. Only 756 growers voted on the measure, and it was 75 per cent of that number that approved it, not the 6,500 apple growers state-wide."

Kellar said that the state made it very difficult for the farmers to get a chance to vote on the issue. "They held the voting in the courthouses instead of in the grange halls and other meeting places where the farmers traditionally gather. That meant that a farmer would have to take off work, get dressed in a business suit and come in to vote. Also, the referendum was held in May, a time when many farmers are working from dawn to dusk on their crops."

Kellar claimed that the notice of the referendum was poorly advertised, appearing in only the major papers. Associate Justice J. Clarence Herlihy, the only dissenting vote on the panel of five judges, seemed to concur with Kellar. He said, it would seem apparent that a legal notice published in only 14 counties out of at least 58 counties affected is patently insufficient."

2 Are Arrested By Police on Intrusion Count

Local police made two arrests downtown early today for alleged unlawful intrusion and another on upper Broadway Thursday afternoon on charges of public intoxication and possession of a switch-blade knife.

Walter Dukes, 31, of 231 Hertz Street, Brooklyn, was charged with intrusion, police said, after he was found sleeping in a truck of the Era Electric Construction Corp., of Pearl Street. Extensive search of a warehouse on Catherine Street where the truck was parked. The arrest was by officers Curtis VanDemark and John Duffner.

Also charged with intrusion was Richard Wynkoop, 18, of 34 Murray Street, who police said was found in a vacant building at 142 Broadway. He was arrested by officers Thomas Coffey and Edward Coughlin.

The Broadway property, owned by Nicholas Schwartz, of 42 Abel Street, is due to be acquired by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, it was reported today.

Joseph Torrisi, 19, of 95 East Chester Street, was arrested Thursday afternoon by officers Otto Short and Patrick Colbert on charges of public intoxication and possession of a switch-blade knife. He was apprehended on Broadway near O'Neil Street.

Dukes pleaded guilty today before City Judge Hubert A. Richter and was sentenced to 20 days in jail. Hearing of Wynkoop was put over to July 23. It was indicated he may be treated as a youthful offender. Bail for Torrisi, fixed at $1,500 on the switch-blade charge, and $50 on public intoxication, was not posted. He is due in court again Saturday morning.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Defense Personnel Support Center today awarded a $956,400 contract to Inflated Products Co. Inc., Beacon, N.Y., for 120,000 nylon pneumatic mattresses.

The center also announced contracts to: Putnam Mills Corp., New York, $568,065, for 449,250 yards of cotton cloth; Prestex Inc., New York, $967,625 for 750,000 yards of cotton cloth; Riegel Textile Corp., New York, $918,096 for 744,000 yards of cotton cloth.

Report Two Traffic Mishaps on Route 28

Two motor vehicle accidents which occurred on Route 28 on Thursday were investigated by Deputy Sheriff Robert Grennie. Cars driven by David Mahler, 23, of Westwood, N. J., and Adele Seaman, 47, of Nutley, N. J., were involved in a collision on Route 28 about 300 feet west of Route 42, Town of Shandaken. Janice Sealise, 21, Brooklyn, a passenger, sustained facial lacerations.

In the other mishap which occurred on the same highway near Phoenixia, a car driven by James Cassimatis, 59, of 15 Belvedere S Street, city, left the highway and ran into a tree according to Deputy Grennie. The driver's wife, Beulah, 65, suffered a fractured right arm and lacerations of the face and arms. She was taken to Kingston Hospital.

Nab 3 Men
degree burglary, possessing burglary tools and possessing stolen property. The men also face charges of first degree grand larceny in connection with the alleged theft in April of the 1964 car, in which they were riding when apprehended.

A preliminary examination was requested by the accused trio and the case was adjourned until Thursday, July 21 after the men insisted they wanted to consult their attorney. Lupo, Pasqua and Weiss were committed to the county jail and no bail was set, although it is expected that a request for fixing of bail will be made today in County Court.

Suspicious actions of the three occupants of the stolen car attracted the attention of state and city authorities as the car was seen traveling in this area earlier yesterday. A detail of troopers and city detectives stopped the vehicle on Route 9W about opposite the Highland State Police substation as the three men were heading south at a fast clip.

Under Close Guard
Under close guard of the troopers and detectives the three men were taken to a state police substation where they underwent questioning. Investigation disclosed that the men allegedly had burglarized the Amerling home on Clay Road, Port Ewen, sometime before noon. Investigator Shannon said the house was ransacked and loot taken consisted of a number of silver dollars and assorted jewelry, the value of which was not determined, but considered not of the expensive kind.

Shannon and Lisman, who were assisted in yesterday's investigation by Troopers Thomas Crowley and John McKieck, are continuing their check on the records of the trio and also their activities in this area and other places.

Kaye Says Slambango Sale Was Biggest Ever

"The biggest opening day we ever had at any of our Slambango Days sales in the 60 years of our business," was the way Louis W. Kaye, president of Kaye Sportswear, Inc., at 328 Wall Street, described the opening day of the semi-annual Slambango Sale.

"Who said Wall Street business area is dying?" Kaye said. "Why we had between 1,200 and 1,300 customers in our store Thursday, the biggest crowd we ever had."

"The uptown shopping area is not dead, it is attracting more and more people with the uptown stores offering such a wide variety of merchandise at attractive prices," Kaye continued. He noted that convenience to shoppers, a wide variety of merchandise and service was making the Uptown shopping area even more popular than ever and expressed his faith in the future of the shopping area.

Hudson Numismatic Club Sixth Annual Coin show and jamboree will be held at the Gov. Clinton Hotel in Kingston, Saturday and Sunday, July 30 and 31, all day. With the new type of money coming out, it will be interesting to see what the old ones, in good condition will be worth.

I am more interested in cachet or decorated envelopes or cancellations than actual stamps. I have one envelope which is cancelled "U. S. Navy Operation, Deep Freeze, Little America: Antarctica." It is dated May 1, 8 a. m. 1956. In a little magazine given to me by my neighbor,

Mrs. LaTorre is an article on the Navy's Operation Deep Freeze, which was during the International Geophysical Year of 1958, when the South Pole area was colonized for the first time, and investigated by scientists from all over the world. This June 1966 magazine, called The Houghton Line — Not a Yes — Magazine is published by the E. F. Houghton & Co. of Philadelphia, Pa. U. S. A. Navy weather men are keeping records about the weather on this unpredictable continent. Navy postal clerks (actually just one) are handling 10,000 letters each month, although the South Pole Post Office is maintained for less than 25 people. The temperature can drop there to minus 124 degrees F. Pilots flying over the U. S. get information from some 300 weather stations. In Antarctica there are 20 weather stations scattered over a continent half again as big as the U. S. informs this magazine article.

Thus, a simple little envelope brings out a story. This envelope does not have a decoration, so I guess a penguin may be appropriate, a well known bird of the Antarctic. It further says in the book, that in the world of philately a letter with a cancellation stamp or cachet from an unusual place is treasured. Thus the "South Pole" post office gets many self-addressed envelopes, which are cancelled with the frigid postmark and returned to the senders. In some three months as of Jan. 26, 1966, approximately 35,000 letters were cancelled by this station which holds only 25 men. The information one can gather from an envelope cancellation should aid some students in geography and history classes, of course, their teachers should be enthusiastic about such an enterprise to encourage the students.

No doubt many will send for the new Bill of Rights 175th Anniversary five cent stamp coming out on July 1, from Miami Beach, Fla., 33139. The thousand and years of Polish Cultural stamp will be out on July 30 from Washington, D. C. 20013. The Polish stamp is also five cents.

Summer passes so quickly in Kingston and Ulster County, and one should take advantage of it, by being outdoors as much as possible. We have a number of interesting parks in Kingston which can be used for picnics. Forsyth Park is popular in many ways, and especially for parents with small children as they have many animals to see. The Kingston Point Beach is again in use, as it was many years ago, when thousands would be there during hot summer days. One should be careful of the mid-afternoon hot sun and other summer problems. Salads spoil very easily. I was taught not to go in swimming right after eating, not to swim too far, and never, never go in swimming alone. Horse-play is dangerous enough on the beach, and never should be allowed in the water.

Discuss Negro Employment In Today's Readers Survey

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Associated Press has just completed a survey in which average newspaper readers across the country were asked what interested or troubled them most about the world today. A series of readers' questions were taken from the poll. This article about Negro employment gains is one of several dealing with those questions.

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — What's the government doing to open employment opportunities for Negroes?

"There is no more ugly and urgent crisis facing this nation today than the economic security of Negro Americans. Negro unemployment is of disaster proportions."

Note Consensus

That was the consensus of the recent White House Conference On Civil Rights. It called for sweeping action by government and business to ease one of the nation's most painful racial problems.

At the same time, the Labor Department reported that Negroes have gained substantial ground in employment over the past decade. But it cautioned that they might lose most of it in the next decade unless they won a bigger share of skilled and white-collar jobs.

The federal government has moved on several fronts to combat not only the problem of jobless Negroes but also the equally serious dilemma of Negroes employed below their levels of skill and education.

Yet two years after the passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, no one is prepared to translate those federal efforts into meaningful figures of newly employed — or better employed — Negroes.

Outlined Scope

Here, nevertheless, is the scope of the federal effort: The 1964 act established an Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) and charged it with investigating complaints of job discrimination and securing voluntary compliance with nondiscrimination standards by employers.

Its authority was limited the first year to companies or unions with 100 or more persons. Beginning this summer, exemptions will be limited to those employing fewer than 75 persons. But for the first year, the law has applied to only 1.75 per cent of the nation's employers. As of mid-May, the commission has received 7,060 complaints in its first year of life. It has investigated 3,074 of these but closed fewer than 100 cases. It has recorded successful conciliations in 70 cases against 28 employers, obtaining full compliance agreements. And it was unsuccessful or only partially successful in 25 cases against 8 employers.

In its biggest effort, the commission hammered out an agreement with Virginia's largest employer, the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Co., after 41 Negro employees had complained to Washington.

Planned Evaluation The result — considered a model by EEOC officials — was an agreement whereby the company and the commission would evaluate jobs and pay rates to determine whether Negroes were getting equal treatment. If not the agreement calls for changes to make the treatment equal.

Legislation passed by the House and being considered by the Senate would give the commission more power, in the form of authority to issue cease-and-desist orders against employers. And it would drastically increase the jurisdiction of the law so that all employers of more than eight persons would be covered.

Money talks, and the power of the dollar was wielded last fall in an executive order in which President Johnson authorized the secretary of labor to insure compliance with nondiscrimination requirements in billions of dollars worth of federal contracts.

The Labor Department's Office of Contract Compliance, created shortly after the order had been signed, recently held its first round of informal hearings with some 30 contractors whose practices had come under question.

Threatens Cancellation

About half a dozen of these will be informed soon that they no longer will be permitted to do business with the government, a department official said. The secretary of labor has the authority to cancel any existing contracts when noncompliance is found.

As of June 1, the hiring and employment policies of all potentially successful bidders are being scrutinized before the award of any government contract for $1 million or more.

The same executive order authorized the Civil Service Commission to insure compliance with the federal policy "to pro-

NEW YORK (AP) — The interest rate war has swung into the field of politics. It now lines up the easy money army against the tight money forces in both the administration and the Congress, the housing and lumber industries against the big banks, and to a degree the financial institutions against the federal government's fiscal authorities.

As if all this wasn't scrambled enough, the interest rate war in the United States has some international repercussions. The U.S. dollar and the English pound sterling are linked to a large degree as international trade settlement currencies. And rising interest rates declared Thursday in London will have some effect on the tight money market in the United States.

Reaches Head

At home the quarrel between the financial institutions and the government is brought to a head by Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler's suggestion that the Congress check the growing interest rate war between the banks and the savings and loans associations.

The quarrel is largely this: the banks say that the high interest rates fostered by the monetary authorities (primarily the Federal Reserve Board) has been designed to curb inflation and keep an exuberant business boom from becoming a runaway one.

But the banks charge that the monetary authorities are being made to carry all the load and the fiscal authorities none of it. The fiscal measures to control inflation would include either vide equal opportunity in federal employment for all qualified persons... and to promote the full realization of equal employment opportunity through a positive, continuing program in each executive department and agency."

Finally, the government has lent its moral and financial support in the past five years to a program called Plans For Progress, under which more than 300 business and labor organizations have pledged to promote employment policies free of racial or religious bias.

Kingston YMCA Lists Graduates Of Swim Courses

The YMCA, organized in 1844, formally taking account of physical education in 1856, in 1857, gave to the world the games of basketball (1891) and volleyball (1895). Historically speaking however, no organized physical program has a longer story to tell than swimming. The YMCA aquatic program is tried and tested. Its popularity is unquestioned. Statistics year in and year out show an ever increasing degree of participation in all aspects. Committees and professional personnel are committed and trained to assist and expand the program in every way. The aquatic program starts at beginning "minnow" swimming and runs through senior life saving, a total of 79 skills ranging from putting one's feet in the water to a complete rescue are covered. The YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County is proud to be one of the many "Y's" across the country using the famous YMCAs national aquatic program. Six minnow classes, six fish classes, four flying fish and four shark classes are taught every week during the summer at the Kingston "Y". Girls and boys who have completed minnow class successfully recently at the YMCA are Nancy Kelly, Dianne Mendoza, Catherine Lindvall, Deborah Smith, Alan Petmale, Mark Corrado, Alan Costello, Edward Pine, William Tripp, Steven Starkman and Vincent DeLuca. Those who have mastered fish skills are Joanne McGowan, Maureen Fairley, Rosemary Mancuso, Antoinette Cosenza, Moanne Mancuso and Marie Reilly. Ernest McGowan completed his shark skills. The Kingston YMCA, an agency of the Ulster County Community Chest, now has 252 boy members and 119 girl members, exclusive of the over 500 youth who will be served this summer at the YMCA Day Camp in Shokan.

Girl Deserving of a Fair Break

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 24 and having been going with a girl my age for three years. I fed her a line only to keep her interested and now I am sorry because she thinks I am in love with her and will eventually marry her. She doesn't date anyone but me and she gets jealous if I look at another girl or want to spend an evening with my buddies.

I enjoy her company, but I am not in love with her and never could be. How can I get out of her clutches without losing her completely? She comes in handy on a rainy Sunday afternoon.

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Do the girl a favor and level with her, but spare her the painful details. Tell her marriage is not on your mind. Then quit dating her, and get some good books for those rainy Sunday afternoons. It's high time you turned over a new leaf, Romeo.

DEAR ABBY: I am a professional soldier now serving in Viet Nam. I have a wonderful wife and four children. I am due for a rotation back to the States next month. I recently received my assignment which is one every soldier dreams about but very few get.

I was thrilled and wrote my wife about the lucky break. She wrote back saying if I wanted to move I could go without her and the children as she wasn't moving there. I don't think this is fair to me. Should I try to get my assignment changed, or go there without her? I think I deserve more than an empty home to come home to.

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

SENSIBLE SERVING OF LIQUOR IS DETERRENT TO OVERINDULGENCE

I am printing excerpts from a letter I received today to clarify my position on the drinking of alcoholic beverages.

Q: In your column, frequent mention is made of the serving of cocktails, and other alcoholic beverages. Even I, who sees little of it, can't help but sense the concern in this country in regard to alcoholism. I really believe that the majority of your readers believe in, and enjoy, total abstinence from the use of alcoholic beverages, knowing full well that "abstainers never become alcoholics." We are offended, and concerned by what I think of as cheap, sneaky advertising of the liquor industry in the column, "The Right Thing to Do."

A: I have repeatedly pointed out that a great many people prefer not to drink alcoholic beverages. I have never recommended that anyone who does not wish to, should drink liquor. In suggesting beverages for special occasions, I have always insisted that soft drinks should be offered whenever wines or liquors are served.

Neither have I claimed that it is not proper or correct to drink liquor; that is a moral or religious question up to the individual; and as such is not in my field. The subject which does lie within my province is: How to serve any beverage properly, whether it contains alcohol or not.

May I point out that when alcoholic beverages are served and enjoyed intelligently—that is, in moderation—it is a deterrent to, rather than an encouragement of, overindulgence.

From the number of letters I received asking about cocktail parties, wines at dinner, beer parties, etc., I cannot believe that a majority of my readers are teetotalers. It is part of my job, and I will continue to do it, to answer their questions with as much care and thought as I give the questions on any other subject.

I regret that my references to alcohol inevitably offend some very sincere people, and I would like to say that I admire the strength of their convictions.

Who pays for what at the wedding? This question is answered in detail in the booklet on "Wedding Expenses." To get a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Freeman.

Nursing Home Owners Study Medicare Plan

An investor can do better by putting his money into U. S. Savings Bonds or a Savings bank than risk it in nursing home construction under the present reimbursement formula for Medicare, a leading expert on Medicare reimbursement told an audience of nursing home owners, administrators and accountants from six counties at an all-day seminar sponsored by the Westchester Nursing Home Association at the Hilton Inn in Tarrytown, today. The association covers Ulster, Dutchess, Putnam, Orange, Rockland and Westchester Counties.

This might lead to a more critical shortage of nursing home beds in the future than has been anticipated as unequalled nursing homes fall by the wayside and new construction lags, according to A. Harry Kupersmith, a principal in New York City law and accounting firms, financial management advisor, author and lecturer.

An expert in nursing home management, Mr. Kupersmith is a member of the New York State Nursing Home Advisory Committee. Selected by Dr. Ray Trussell, director of the Columbia University School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine, the committee is making a study of the problems of developing a nursing home cost reimbursement formula for Title 19 (Medicaid) under a contract between Columbia University and the Department of Health. A report will be issued to State Health Commissioner Dr. Hollis Ingraham by Oct. 1.

Other members of the committee include Dr. George Warner, director of the Bureau of Adult Health and Geriatrics, and Dr. Robert Whalen, deputy commissioner of Hospitals and Related Facilities, both New York State.

Due Before Ethics Group 19th Klein Answers Questions On Dodd's Relationship

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP) — Public relations man Julius Klein said today that when he learned Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., was going to West Germany "I asked him to speak up for me" because the headlines were "snowballing" there.

Hurt by '63 Hearing

Klein, a registered agent for West German business interests, said he had been hurt by a 1963 hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on foreign agents.

Klein is scheduled to appear July 19 before the Senate Ethics Committee investigating Sen. Dodd.

"I knew he was making the trip," he said in an interview. "At the same time I asked him to speak up for me in West Germany," he added.

"I wrote every member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and asked if they would be good enough to explain that I was not tried, convicted or criticized by the committee — only by Sen. Fulbright (Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., the chairman). When I found out Sen. Dodd was leaving, I asked him if he would do the same. The headlines were snowballing over there."

The Ethics Committee is investigating charges by columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson that Dodd made a trip to West Germany in 1964 to help Klein retain his clients.

When Dodd testified before the committee June 27, he denied making the trip in Klein's behalf. The senator said he was conducting an investigation for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Klein, 64, stocky and owlish, chain smoked cigars in a white holder as he answered questions about his relationship with Sen. Dodd.

Sweltering

wave as "the longest and hottest spell of weather we've ever seen in the area" amid a report today that Actg. Governor Malcolm Wilson in Albany had declared Jefferson and Lewis Counties disaster areas.

Weaver said the sweltering heat not only caused acute discomfort to residents but threatened severe losses to farmers.

According to Weaver, the corn crop is suffering due to the heat and lack of water. The evaporation rate, he explained, is up sharply as well. In fact, Weaver said, the percentage of water in the ground is hovering near the 25 per cent mark, considered the absolute minimum in which apples can ripen. Weaver said that apple growers that have irrigation facilities are already using them. Those that don't can only pray for rain, he added.

Throughout this week, the state has sweltered in 90-degree plus temperatures. Record-high temperatures were recorded in many areas, including 101 degrees in New York City on Wednesday.

But the farmlands in the two counties of Jefferson and Lewis appeared hardest hit. Many farmers reported that the area's clay soil was cracked and as hard as brick because of the lack of rain.

The ground-level moisture that built up after June's heavy rains began burning away and disaster committees in the two counties asked the governor's office for assistance.

If the U.S. Agriculture Department approves the state's request, farmers in the two counties will be permitted to use grazing and hay land now idle under the soil bank and feed-grain programs.

In his telegram to Orville Freeman, agriculture secretary, Wilson noted that the farmland in the two northern counties "is insufficient to provide necessary feeding to dairy animals and other livestock. I urge you to release this acreage in the interests of the farmers and consumers."

To the non-farm people however, today's weather was significant mainly because it was cool and seasonable for the second day after temperatures early in the week baked the state.

Temperatures Thursday ranged from a 95 in New York City to a 77 in Massena.

The fair and cooler weather was predicted to continue through Saturday.

Wilson acted in the absence of Gov. Rockefeller, who is vacationing in Europe with his wife and their son.

Work Completed On Service Group Paltz Building

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller reported today that work has been completed on an $821,300 Service Group Building at the State University College at New Paltz.

"The facility, sited in the southeastern portion of the campus, is a two-level structure which will centralize warehouse, commissary and maintenance operations for the entire college," Gov. Rockefeller explained.

Designed by the New York City architectural firm of Ballard Todd Associates, the Service Group Building was constructed by E. W. Howell Co., Babylon. Subcontractors were Tougner Plumbing and Heating Co., Menands, and Whitman Electric, Inc., Kingston.

"Nearly $11 million in new projects have now been completed on the College at New Paltz campus since 1962 with the availability of this new facility," Gov. Rockefeller said. More than $19 million in construction continues on such structures as an Infirmary, a Humanities and Social Science lecture hall, a library, a heating plant, a 1000-student capacity dormitory complex, a 500-seat dining hall and second Science Building as well as extensive site development work.

The State University of New York is currently in the process of a $1.349 billion physical development program, of which the College at New Paltz expansion is a part. Directing this program is the State University Construction Fund, a public benefit corporation established by the 1962 Legislature upon the recommendation of Governor Rockefeller to expedite the construction of facilities to meet the State University's Master Plan requirements.

Chicago Rocked

Police, who also was shot in the back by a sniper early Thursday night. He was reported in good condition.

Police Cars Busy

Police used the butts of shotguns to disperse a crowd of some 100 Negro youths on the corner of 15th Street and Kedzie Avenue.

Up to 5,000 Negroes were on the streets. Some watched. Others wandered down the streets. Some looted.

Looting Is Common

Looting was common. Police said that it consisted mostly of breaking shop windows and fleeing with small items.

An early evening coolness and some rain which brought relief after several days of hot weather had been expected to keep the disturbances at a minimum.

But as the night wore on the coolness disappeared and left only the humidity from the rain.

Unmarked squad cars containing four or five plainclothes Negro detectives roamed the wide area from Halsted Street to Pulaski Road, and from Roosevelt Road to Lake Street.

Store to Store

Bands of Negro youths ran from store to store on Roosevelt Road breaking windows and pulling down large metal folding gates to get at the loot.

At a shoe store, a dozen squad cars converged on three Negroes as they attempted to flee with loot. In a flurry of gunfire, one of the Negroes was wounded in the side. The other two were arrested and handcuffed together in the rear of a squad car.

As the violence increased and shooting became more widespread, police vehicles were recalled to their stations and loaded with boxes of fresh ammunition. The heavily loaded cars raced back to hot spots.

On foot, policemen carrying carbines held chest high marched down side streets and main streets ordering: "Clear the area or you'll be arrested."

At the corner of Roosevelt and Sawyer Avenue, police crouched behind their vehicles as dozens of shots scattered newsmen and residents. Then on order they charged down Sawyer, shooting as they went, mostly in the air.

Glass Covers Streets

It was in this foray that Capt. Nolan was shot in the back. As squad car radios crackled with calls for more police at disturbance points, the vehicles, containing as many as six officers, roared down streets through a barrage of bottles, bricks and rubbish.

Glass covered streets and sidewalks.

2 Die in Lift Mishap

PROVO, Utah (AP) — A skilift chair tangled with a support brace in a Wasatch Mountain canyon Thursday and threw seven persons 30 feet to the ground. Two were killed.

There were about 25 persons on the lift. Twelve had hiked from a Mormon church youth camp nearby to go sight-seeing on the lift up the slopes of Mt. Timpanogas, about 15 miles northeast of here.

Sheriff Ralph Chapple of Provo said Mrs. Sherman Peterson, 49, and Susan Carroll, 13, both of Provo, were killed.

Valerie Dunford, about 13, and Betty Ann Hansen, 13, both of Provo, were injured. Miss Dunford critically. Three other girls were treated at a Provo hospital for minor injuries.

Chapple said he didn't know what caused the accident.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market held a gain early this afternoon in moderate trading. Wall Street was still showing no particular concern about rising interest rates. In fact, an advance in the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Board was generally expected because it would be in line with rates already put into effect by bankers.

Second-quarter earnings were bright enough to stimulate some buying. This lacked enthusiasm, however, and pre-weekend caution was apparent once more.

Some of the glamour issues tacked on 2 or 3 points—routine moves for these high steppers. The airlines were weak at the start because of the impasse but some of them came back to the plus side later.

A scattering of key stocks posted solid enough gains to push the averages ahead. The over-all list, however, was no better than irregularly higher.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.45 at 890.25, a bit below its best reading in the morning.

Await Girl's Story on Night of tion, police launched a massive manhunt, set up roadblocks, hauled in a half dozen suspects for questioning. None panned out. Forty policemen were assigned to the investigation full-time and the FBI worked on the case.

Leaves Residents Dazed

In a city where homicides occur on an average of one a day, Jeffery Manor had enjoyed unusual freedom from crimes of violence. It has more bicycle thefts than murders. The area is considered industrial, but with modern, comfortable homes for the middle-income people who work in it.

Its residents were dazed by the tragedy.

"We have been trying our best to build and enhance this community," said Rabbi Elliott Einhorn of Congregation Kehillat Israel. "We simply can't understand how such a shocking and heinous crime could occur here."

The Rev. William Clark, of Our Lady Gate of Heaven Church, estimated about one-third of his parish is of Polish ancestry and there also are a number of German and Irish parishioners. He said about 40 per cent of Jeffery Manor is Jewish.

Three Engaged to Wed

Three of the girls were engaged to marry.

"We hadn't set a date, but we were planning for the future," said Peter McNamee, 23, who was engaged to Miss Schmale. He heard about the slayings on his car radio as he was driving to his job as artist and silk screen painter.

Miss Farris was engaged to Philip Jordan, brother of Mary Ann. Miss Farris' aunt, Della Sweeney, sobbed at the morgue that a spring wedding had been planned. "And now," she said, "it will never happen."

Miss Matusek was engaged to a male student nurse.

There was one irony to the survivors' story.

She quoted the intruder as saying: "I am not going to hurt you. I am only going to tie you up. I need your money to go to New Orleans."

Said Police Cmdr. Flanagan: "It seems that the girls did contribute some little bit to this trip to New Orleans—but how much we'll never know. And how much could they have? These girls were student nurses."

Select Rondout

Organization explained how a group of residents of a low-income project began to help themselves and eventually this organization grew into the multi-unit Neighborhood Service Organization. He also gave the example of Philadelphia, where a group of Philadelphia residents attacking the problems of unemployment, were able to develop a large training and skills complex to help people get better jobs.

Stresses Area Needs

The discussion which followed stressed the needs of the area. Particularly emphasized were the need for better medical care, especially pre-natal care for the area. The need for a planned-parenthood center, where birth-control advice could be received. Also a problem arises with the Welfare Department, where residents complained those in need were too often turned away.

Lack of adequate transportation was stressed, because many jobs which are available cannot be filled by area residents because there is no way to get to or from work.

The 4-H groups explained their need for equipment, especially sewing machines.

Mayor Joins Discussion

The most often stressed need was for pre-kindergarten classes and day-care nurseries.

Mayor Raymond W. Garaghan, joined the discussion with a plea for pre-kindergarten classes for all children, not just those who can afford to pay private schools. He also stressed the need for self-help day-care center, better jobs and recreation facilities.

The meeting ended with applause and congratulations to the members of the advisory group, and hopes for a program beginning in the fall. About 150 attended.

PO Burglarized

NEW YORK (AP) — A burglary in the Forest Hills post office in Queens was discovered this morning, with $22,000 in cash and stamps missing.

Police said the burglar or burglars jimmied open a safe in the post office. A gun may also have been stolen, police said.

The building is at 106-28 Queens Blvd.

Issue Is Never Advisable

Q "I have accumulated five thousand shares of Sunbeam Corp. I inherited two thousand shares on which the price was established at 41 1/4. The stock now sells higher. While Sunbeam is a good growth issue, the yield currently is only 1.9 per cent. My income is based largely on this holding so I am considering switching the two thousand inherited shares into other stocks and bonds. What do you advise?" — D. C.

A You should be congratulated on putting together such a big block of a top-grade stock. I believe very strongly, however, in diversifying your holdings — in having no more invested in a given issue than you can afford to lose. With $260,000 committed to Sunbeam, and apparently with little else in the way of investments, you are certainly vulnerable. I like the stock, which represents excellent management and has shown a fine record of growth in the appliance industry, but I advise you to diversify the risk present in all stocks by selling 2000 shares.

For reinvestment, I suggest Commonwealth Edison; Consolidated Foods; Cities Service; Borden Co.; National Biscuit; Kendall Company; American Telephone 5 1/4 of 1996 selling around 98; Pacific Gas & Electric 5 1/4 of 1998 at a fractional premium. I also advise holding a good cash reserve.

Q "I bought Consolidated Edison at the market through my bank. The bank charged my account for this stock on April 28. The stock went ex-dividend May third. I never received the payment made in June. Am I not entitled to this dividend?" — E. C.

A If the bank bought stock for you for regular payment on April 28, when your account was charged, I believe you should have received the dividend. The payment was made to holders of record May 6. The Exchange rule is that those who buy stocks for regular payment are entitled to the dividend if purchase is made at least four business days prior to the record date. I would discuss this with your officer of your bank.

Wants Solution To Wappingers Telephone Strife

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today charged the State Public Service Commission with failing to serve the public and instead allowing the New York Telephone Company to perpetuate its share of many Wappingers' residents.

In letters to the Public Service Commission, the New York Telephone Company, and the president of AT&T, he urged they find a short term solution to the Wappingers' situation, for example giving toll free service to the involved residents in Wappingers and Poughkeepsie.

The Congressman said, "I cannot sit by and watch while the telephone company says that the public can be damned."

The Congressman's reaction was in response to a public meeting held Wednesday evening in Wappingers at which time 80 New York Telephone Company customers, Robert J. Husband of the Public Service Commission, Telephone Company officials, and Mrs. Warren Helmers of the Congressman's office discussed the problems involving eight-party lines and local toll calls.

Resnick stated, "the people are not satisfied with promises of a solution in two years. They demand and deserve an immediate change in conditions. The situation has been allowed to drag on far too long. The error causing this situation was made by the Telephone Company, yet the people have had to pay for nearly 10 years. At present, they cannot even call their Fire Department without being charged a toll."

The Congressman took action last month by arranging this meeting after receiving a letter and petition signed by 300 area residents. When asked why he had stepped into this matter, Resnick replied, "I realize that this comes under a state commission; however, these people received no help from other officials and had nowhere else to turn for assistance."

For the third successive day, U.S. 152 bombers hammered today at a suspected Communist troop concentration about 10 miles south of the demilitarized zone dividing North and South Vietnam.

Three Communist regiments totaling about 5,000 men had been seen in recent weeks in the target area 20 miles west-southwest of Quang Tri City.

American pilots flew 423 single-plane sorties over South Vietnam Thursday and reported possibly killing 31 Viet Cong while destroying or damaging 470 huts, fortifications and bunkers. South Vietnamese pilots flew 262 sorties.

Castoffs Aid Toronto Surge

Toronto is making the big noise in International League these days, and for the Maple Leafs success began with an All-Star game and a couple of pitching castoffs.

At the time of the June 20 break for the IL's All-Star Game against the Boston Red Sox, the Leafs were next-to-last in the standings with a 26-31 record, 9½ games behind first place Columbus.

Since then they've won 21 of 31 starts, climbing into second place only three games off the Columbus pace. And a large part of the credit for the Leafs surge must go to right-handers Ed Rakow and Galen Cisco.

Rakow was 0-2 for Syracuse, Cisco—a former New York Met plagued with arm trouble—was 0-0 for Jacksonville when Toronto obtained them in mid-June. The change in uniform worked wonders, for Rakow in less than a month has reeled off six straight victories and Cisco now is 5-2.

Cisco pitched a six-hit shutout and Bill Rohr, now 8-7, followed with a seven-hitter Thursday place by sweeping Buffalo 40, 5-1.

Columbus, meantime, lost to Richmond 3-1 and Rochester fell 3½ games behind the Jets by getting whipped at Syracuse 7-5. In the night's other game, Jacksonville downed Toledo 4-3.

Jim Russin homered for Toronto in its first game win over Buffalo and Rohr went 3-for-3 in the nightcap.

Pitcher Herb Hippauf beat Columbus for Richmond by scattering 10 hits and knocking in two of the Braves' three runs with a double.

Manny Jimenez' pinch hit triple drove across three runs for Syracuse in its come-from-behind win over Rochester. Wayne Belanger hit his fifth home run for the losing Red Wings.

Danny Napoleon singled home the winning run in the eighth inning for Jacksonville.

Simmons Hits 507

Maud Simmons led Plaza Summer Quads with 507 on 142, 163, 202; team results: Four Roses 0, Simmons Plaza 3; The Amateurs 1, The Play Girls 2; Playmates 1, Stanley Home Products 2; The Bowling Bags 1, The Group 2.

Catches Huge Cod

Ed Mercer, 14, a former delivery boy for The Kingston Freeman, made his first deep sea fishing venture a happy one recently when he caught a huge cod.

Accompanied by his father and several friends, the Mercer youngster was on Survivor II out of Island Park, Long Island. His catch was the biggest on the boat.

Stops Cleveland Indians, 2-1; Yankees Beat KC

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tommy John gave a boost to the Chicago White Sox, who have been having trouble getting off the ground, then left them up in the air for a week.

The 23-year-old, a weak winner of Manager Eddie Stanky's staff with an 8-5 record, was set today to spend a week with the Indiana Air National Guard.

Thursday night, he pitched the White Sox into a sixth-place tie with the Kansas City Athletics, firing a six-hitter in a 2-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians that snapped a five-game losing streak.

John was due to rejoin the club next Friday, and Stanky said he plans to start him the next day.

Orleans Bow

The second-place Baltimore Orioles by nipping the league leaders 4-3 under acting Manager Frank Skaff.

Coaching Skaff took charge of the Tigers after acting Manager Bob Swift was hospitalized by a stomach infection earlier in the day. Swift had taken the reins from Charlie Dressen, the regular manager, May 16 when Dressen was stricken with a second heart attack.

Subways Topple Merchants, 10-2

Subway Grill trounced Port Ewen Merchants, 10-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Vince Peck to strengthen its hold on fourth place in the City Softball League.

Dale's Capture Softball Tilts

Southside Men's Club beat Miller's Rexall, 5-1, and Dale's Sunoco scored an 8-5 win over McConekey Funeral Home in last night's Saugerties Softball League games.

John Freigh won his sixth game against three losses as Southside led all the way. Vince Ferraro homered, doubled and singled to pace the attack. Don McCaig hit a triple and Joe Martin a run producing single.

Freigh had a no-hitter until the ninth but two errors put runners on base and then Dave Jones and Bill Straub connected for singles.

McConekey rocked starter Maurice Hinchey to score four runs in the first inning but he settled down and scattered three hits the rest of the way.

Dale's evened the count in the fifth and tallied twice in the sixth and seventh to clinch it. Murray Craft hit a homer and Jamey Todorro a triple and two singles to show the way.

Romeo Hanover 8-5 in Thomas
MONTICELLO — Romeo Hanover, the two-year-old pacing champ of 1965, and a hot choice for the triple crown this year, is the early 8-5 favorite to beat four rivals in the $7,896.25 Henry Thomas Pace at Monticello tomorrow night.

Win betting only will be permitted on this event, so MR. with commission consent, will stage a 10th betting race. Post time for the first start will be 8:30, in place of the usual 9:05.

Romeo Hanover, winner of six of seven starts this campaign for earnings of $121,506, will face only four rivals, but True Duane, opposing Romeo for the first time, looms as quite a challenge to the Jerry Silverman trained Romeo.

True Duane, which chalked up 22 wins in 25 starts in '65, has made his rep in the mid west. This season, he has had but two starts, a 2:01 romp by five lengths at Sportsman's Park on June 24th, and an even more impressive 1:58.3 triumph over Scoto Downs' five eighths mile oval on July 8th.

How good True Duane may be over an half mile strip remains to be seen. Romeo Hanover, which will have Billy Myer driving, shows an 1:58 victory on the Meadow's five eighths mile track, and an 1:59.3 over Saratoga's half mile oval this season.

The field follows:
Post 1 — Armbr Griffin (R. Camper) 4-1.
Post 2 — Royal Gene Pick (J. Schroeder) 7-2.
Post 3 — True Duane (C. Boring) 2-1.
Post 4 — Meadow Lenco (C. Hodgins) 6-1.
Post 5 — Romeo Hanover (W. Myer) 8-5.

(Freeman Sports Editor)

The annual grass roots revolt is coming to a simmer across the fairways of the land.

Too many tournaments is the cry heard in the locker room, shower room and the 19th hole. Why to do about it? Well, where men and women congregate to blast tournament play the suggestions run pretty much to form.

Eliminate all tournaments, says the fellow who can play only Saturdays and Sundays. Cut out the 36-hole tournaments and three-day affairs, says another. They're too big, too long, too time consuming.

Eliminate all tournaments between Memorial Day and Labor Day, says the other clique. If we're going to have tournaments, let the tournament players take their chances with the other members. So what's a little traffic jam now and then?

Tournaments? Who needs them, asks another small clique. They're only for the big wheels, anyway, who don't pay any more dues than we do.

Put these bright suggestions into effect and what do you get? The most expensive public courses in the land. Sure, everybody will get to play but it will be worth it? Why not give it a try one of these days. We predict for it an ignoble fate.

Why not send out tournament players with those dandy little singles, doubles, triples and foursomes. No starting times—just everybody congregate on the first tee and take it from there.

Let's eliminate all tournaments just one season and let's see how the money machine at the 19th hole comes out at season's end.

Some people can beat the heat—others can beat the rules. We know one fellow who does it consistently. Has a simple formula. On days when the course is closed to all but tournament players until a stipulated hour, he arises bright and early, sneaks to the first tee and gets in his 9 holes. He is generally midway through his nine when the tournament players are teeing off.

This is nice going, if you can get away with it. Now, let's assume other members get the same idea and all show up on a given morning and sneak out ahead of the starters. Wouldn't that be a lovely dinnery?

Perhaps, there is an overload of tournaments, as club memberships soar to all-time highs. But prudence and discretion are the solutions, not radical or revolutionary moves.

A man pays his dues, he figures he should be able to play anytime he wants to. Sounds good in theory but doesn't quite work out that way in practice.

Trouble is many of our golf club members haven't the foggiest notion about how a real country club is operated.

For example, women (who have one day a week set aside for them) can't play on Saturday or Sunday at many clubs. If they can, the weekend and holiday hours are severely restricted. You cannot play in singles or twosomes. You cannot just march to the first tee and bang away. You reserve starting times. If you haven't got a foursome, you wait until a foursome is made up by the starter.

Once embarked on your round, you will be under the constant surveillance of "rangars" who prow around the course, prodding he slow ones, these who completely disregard the lost ball rule and search interminably as though looking for the Hope diamond.

We concede there may be a preponderance of tournaments at some clubs and a compromise may be advisable. But we caution golf committees not to surrender the hallowed traditions of the game. A country club without tournament play is a glorified public course, nothing less.

Cupit's 65 Paces
ST. PAUL, Minn.—AP—The touring golf professionals have always been tough on St. Paul's Keller public golf course, but Thursday they overdid themselves.

The field of 144 pros, scrambling for the $20,000 top money in the $100,000 Minnesota Classic, with big guns like Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Tony Lama passing it by, swarmed over Keller like it was a miniature golf course.

They swept through the first round with 57 of them below par and another 24 at even par. Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr., the Wiltwyck historian, said that Marks captured the 1963 event, defeating George Hughes of Twaalfskill, 2 and 1, in the finals.

Ronnie Marks, former Wiltwyck Country Club champion who is flying in from Boulder, Colorado for this week's Wiltwyck Invitational is a past champion.

Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr., the Wiltwyck historian, said that Marks captured the 1963 event, defeating George Hughes of Twaalfskill, 2 and 1, in the finals.

Rochester Vet Leads in Seniors
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. George Trainor, representing the Country Club of Rochester, was the man to beat in today's final round of the 36-hole, 15th annual New York State Seniors Golf Tournament.

Trainor, at 55 barely eligible for the tourney, carded a 38-37-75 Thursday to take the halfway lead in the Class C (ages 55-59) competition at the Oak Hill Country Club here. His cause was helped by birdies on the first and 17th holes.

Richard Guelbeck, from Buffalo's Wanakah Country Club, became the leader of Class C (60-64) on the strength of a 39-41-80 round, while Ted Stacy of Binghamton paced Class B (65-69) with a 38-38-76.

In Class A (70-74), Jack Ahern of the Wanakah Club grabbed the lead with a 32-48-80.

A first-round tie developed in Class AA, for men 74 and over, as Harry Gilmore of the Bellevue Country Club, Syracuse, and Joe Scanlon of Oak Hill, each shot 90. Gilmore scored a 47-43 and Scanlon a 44-46.

Eliminate Dokka In Golf Tourney
MILWAUKEE (AP)—The only thing certain about the National Public Links Golf Tournament today was the fact there will be a new champion.

Arne Dokka of Studio City, Calif., the defending titlist and medalist, was eliminated in the quarter-finals Thursday by George Demling of Louisville, Ky., 5 and 4. The rugged Brown Deer course finally got to Dokka and he went out with a five-over-par card.

Monty Kaser of Wichita, Kan., disposed of Norb Anderson of St. Paul, Minn., 4 and 2; Don Powers of Littlefield, Ark., defeated Paul Rust of Tumwater, Wash., 2 and 1, and Dave Ojala of Two Harbors, Minn., ousted Dick Heyl of Sterling, Va., 2 and 1.

Second Hospital Hit By Non-Med Employes

NEW YORK (AP) — Non-medical employes of Montefiore Hospital in the Bronx and Long Island Jewish Hospital in Queens stayed off the job again today in their continuing demonstration for higher pay.

The on-and-off stoppage at Montefiore Hospital is in its fourth day.

Long Island Jewish Hospital was hit Thursday for the first time. Mo Katz, administrator of Montefiore, said employes scheduled to report for the day shift at 7 a.m. were not entering the hospital. About 100 of them gathered outside, where they encouraged a picket line of about 40 persons.

Donald Myers, associate director of Long Island Jewish Hospital, said day shift employes were not reporting on schedule at 7 a.m. and there were about 50 pickets outside.

Myers said the hospital was handling only "life-threatening emergencies" and was not admitting any new patients. A spokesman for Mt. Sinai Hospital in Manhattan, which also was hit by a stoppage Thursday for the first time, reported that the employes were reporting for work this morning. The Mt. Sinai spokesman said, however, that a mass walkout of nonmedical workers at noon today was considered "a good possibility."

The Montefiore Hospital work stoppage was resumed Thursday night only three hours after it had appeared ended. Katz said 50 of the overnight shift of 62 did not report for work at 11 p.m. at the 650-bed hospital.

Evening shift employes, who went off duty at 11 p.m., and overnight shift employes picketed outside the hospital.

Most of the 400 evening shift housekeeping employes and nurses aides had returned to work at 8 p.m. after a day-long stoppage in the continuing demonstrations for higher pay.

The temporary return to work came shortly after Mayor John V. Lindsay had appealed to the workers' union in a telegram to submit their case to arbitration and end the work stoppages.

Walkout Alarms Lindsay Lindsay said "I am alarmed at the effects of the walkout."

Katz said he was calling for supervisors, registered nurses, secretaries and some other employes to report for work an hour or two ahead of schedule today to help care for the patients.

No spokesman for Local 1199 of the AFL-CIO Union could be reached for comment on the resumption of the work stoppage.

Rondout Rescue Squad Schedules Bake Sale

The Rondout Valley First Aid and Rescue Squad will hold a

The public is invited. It was reported that the public is invited to view the new quad building on School House Road, High Falls. It is the squad's new ambulance headquarters.

A crew of 12, under the supervision of Robert Grey, worked from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday to frame the building. Work will resume this weekend and volunteers will be welcomed.

Long Beach Pipeline ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission today approved plans submitted by the Long Island Lighting Co. for construction of an 11-mile gas pipeline through Long Beach.

The company told the PSC that the $9.4-million project was designed to achieve several purposes, among them to supply the E.F. Barrett Electric Generating Station at Island Park.

The company said that, while the 26-inch main would supplement its gas supply to Long Beach, a "substantial portion" of the gas would be used to generate electric power at the Barrett station.

Rosendale Board Studies Tax Law; Details Given

Supervisor of the Town of Rosendale, Gerard DeFelice, today urged residents of the town qualifying for tax exemption on real property under the new state law to notify the town clerk.

These persons should give the town clerk their name and address in writing. Supervisor DeFelice said that this move is necessary to ascertain the number of residents in the town qualifying for the tax exemption.

At the July town board meeting, the board delayed action on the new state law pending further study of the local situation. It is expected that a public hearing will be held in September. DeFelice pointed out that no tax relief would be possible this year as the assessment rolls have been closed for the year.

To Aid Senior Citizens The new law provides for a partial tax exemption of real property owned by certain persons who are 65 years and over. The law authorizes any county, city, town, village or school district, after a public hearing to enact a local law, ordinance or resolution granting a 50 per cent tax exemption for those qualified.

Each unit of government must act independently in its own behalf and must hold a public hearing prior to adoption of any such ruling.

In a communication to all local officials from the State Board of Equalization and Assessment it was noted that school districts taking action under the new law should do so by adopting a resolution as they are not authorized to adopt local laws or ordinances. A copy of the resolution should be given to the assessor or assessors who prepare the assessment roll.

Must File Annually The exemption applies only to taxes levied by the government unit granting the exemption. After adoption of the law, property owners must file an application with the assessor at least 90 days before the date for filing the final assessment roll affected by the exemption. The application for exemption must be filed annually.

Two Sides Still Far Apart in Airlines Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for the machinists union and five struck airlines try again today to settle the eight-day airline strike, but both sides agree they are as far apart as ever.

The talks at the Labor Department began last Saturday—a day after more than 35,000 members of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists walked off their jobs at Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United airlines.

In gloomy assessments after Thursday's joint session, both Joseph W. Ramsey, chief union negotiator, and William J. Curtin, chief airlines negotiator, made clear that the talks were stalemated.

"We're 50 miles apart, pole to pole," Ramsey, an IAM vice president, told newsmen. "If the airlines have any new offer I haven't seen it."

Asked how the talks were going, Ramsey said they were not going at all. "We're as far apart as ever," he said.

Long Beach Pipeline ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission today approved plans submitted by the Long Island Lighting Co. for construction of an 11-mile gas pipeline through Long Beach.

The company told the PSC that the $9.4-million project was designed to achieve several purposes, among them to supply the E.F. Barrett Electric Generating Station at Island Park.

The company said that, while the 26-inch main would supplement its gas supply to Long Beach, a "substantial portion" of the gas would be used to generate electric power at the Barrett station.

Kingston Lions Hear Noted Flyer

David Fox of West Hurley was guest speaker at the Tuesday noon Kingston Lions Club meeting held at Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Associated with the aircraft industry since 1921, Fox described the fun and adventure of flying.

A native of Texas, he was barnstorming in 1934 and was an instructor in 1941. Fox logged more than 15,000 hours in all types of planes from single engine Spads to P-38s. He is now employed by IBM, Kingston and is also associated with Cole Palen at Rhinebeck Airport. The antique planes at Rhinebeck constitute one of the finest and probably the only collection of World War I aircraft that can still fly.

A color film was shown on plane maneuvering during a "dog fight." Fox said an air show is held for the public at Rhinebeck Airport the last Sunday of each month from 2 to 5 p. m. Admission is charged.

Police Still Patrol Brooklyn Trouble Area

NEW YORK (AP) — Police patrols in Brooklyn were augmented again today after the third straight night of disturbances in Negro and Puerto Rican sections of the borough.

No arrests or serious injuries were reported in today's incidents and all was quiet by 4 a. m., police said.

A group of 40 riot-trained Tactical Patrol Force police was sent to Brooklyn after a city bus passing near the Bedford-Stuyvesant area was stoned. Half a dozen passengers were treated at a hospital for minor injuries from flying glass and released, police said.

In the East New York section, four unidentified white men flung a pipe through the window of a Puerto Rican grocery store. Police said one person was slightly injured.

Nearby, a white man hurled a bicycle frame at a policeman, who suffered a cut on the leg. On Wednesday night police reported roving bands of Negro youths broke store windows and looted some shops in Bedford-Stuyvesant. A dance in the Coney Island section Tuesday night erupted into a bottle-throwing brawl in which 12 persons were injured and 17 arrested.

Historians believe that 8,000 years ago the Egyptians became the first people to paint with a wide variety of colors.

Nazi Convention Area Becoming Living Complex

By HANNS NEUERBOURG

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP) — Dynamite, bulldozers and cranes are grappling with Germany's most monumental heritage of the Nazi era.

Ancient Nuernberg, once the proud site of Adolf Hitler's annual party conventions, has begun to tear down what he ordered built for eternity.

Plan Living Quarters

During the next 10 years, contractors and gardeners will turn most of the 2,500-acre convention grounds into an area of bungalows, apartment houses, parks and lakes.

Only the largest building, the party Congress Hall, is likely to remain standing as a most conspicuous memento of the "thousand-year reich" that lasted just 147 months.

German army engineers joined civilian demolition crews in blowing up six massive towers of travertine rock that were to ring the Maerzfeld parade grounds. In area, the 250-acre field was the most spacious of the party convention facilities. Like all of them, it was never finished.

Maerzfeld was designed by Albert Speer, later armaments minister, who this fall completes a 20-year-term in prison. It was to be the site of massed military displays and an assembly area for the hundreds of thousands marching past the Fuehrer.

Plans of Grandeur

Only 11 of the planned 26 towers were built, each 111 feet high. The plans called for 500 swastika flags, each 60 feet long, to be hung between the towers during conventions. Elevated tunnels of concrete connected the towers for easier movement of the banners and other equipment around the field—built to hold three million. The towers are making way for a modern suburb. The community of Langwasser already has 15,000 inhabitants but needs room for 50,000 more between now and 1975.

Total cost of the 15,000-apartment Langwasser project is estimated at $375 million by Joseph Haas, head of the city-owned housing company which is in charge of the venture. The sum includes a shoestring $150,000 for bringing down the Maerzfeld towers.

Demolition of the towers cannot be completed until mid-1967 because part of Maerzfeld is still used as a parking area for U.S. Army planes and helicopters. The planes land on Grosse Strasse, the parade avenue of granite where Nazi columns once marched 50 abreast. At the end of Grosse Strasse rises what Hitler once described as an "eternal witness" of the Nazi movement. It is Kongresshalle, a gigantic, horseshoe-shaped roofless building. Only two of the projected four stories lining the hall were finished when the war stopped all work on the convention grounds in 1943.

Allows Walden Phone To Issue Securities

ALBANY—The Public Service Commission today authorized Walden Telephone Company, of Walden, to issue new securities which will produce proceeds of not less than $299,960.

The company will issue 852 additional shares of its no par value common stock, 2,688 shares of 5.5 per cent $50 par value Series C cumulative preferred stock, and $97,400 principal amount of 5 per cent convertible debentures. The common stock and the debentures are to be offered initially under preemptive rights to present common stockholders. The company expects to sell the preferred stock to its subscribers.

Walden Telephone serves about 7,600 stations in portions of Orange and Ulster Counties through exchanges at Walden, Montgomery, Wallkill and Pine Bush. Since 1960 it has been engaged in a major construction program to improve and expand its service. Work undertaken since March 31, 1964, has entailed expenditures of more than $856,000, most of which was obtained through short-term loans made by an area bank. The proceeds to be derived from the sale of the new securities will be used to retire an equivalent amount of notes issued to raise funds for plant expansion.

GOOD LUCK—Republican candidate for Congress Hamilton Fish Jr. of Dutchess County, is wished "Good Luck" by ex-Vice President Richard E. Nixon. Fish conferred with Nixon on the coming campaign following a recent four-day Washington candidate's conference. According to the former Republican Vice-President, 1966 is a crucial year in the history of the Republican Party. "Our Party must return at least a strong minority to Congress this year if our country is to maintain the two-party system," Nixon said.

Lift Picket Lines

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Striking carpenters have lifted picket lines and allowed other union building tradesmen to resume work on some construction projects halted in northwestern Vermont by the 11-day-old carpenters' strike.

The Federal mediator John O'Reilly of Concord, N.H., reported "no progress" after Thursday's session and said another negotiating meeting will be held next Tuesday or Wednesday. About 300 members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America struck July 5, halting an estimated $20 million in construction projects at 32 sites.

Hanoi Gets Few Air Replacements From Red Friends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese air force which has lost about one-fifth of its strength in air-to-air combat with American planes has received few replacements from the Soviet Union or Red China, it was indicated today.

Only Small Numbers

U.S. officials said there may have been some replacements, but only in small numbers.

Until late spring, these officials used a figure of 75 when discussing the size of North Viet Nam's fleet of MIG jet fighters and IL28 bombers. Now they peg that force at about 60 planes.

Seventeen MIGs have been downed in dogfights with American jets, 12 of them in the past three months. Over-all only three American jets have been lost in aerial combat out of a total of about 290 U.S. warplanes downed over North Viet Nam in 17 months. The bulk of U.S. air losses in the North has been caused by conventional anti-aircraft guns.

Lt. Gen. Joseph H. Moore, until recently Air Force commander in Viet Nam, said the MIGs have not been any real problem. With the exception of the three American craft destroyed in air combat, the North Vietnamese pilots have "always come out second best," Moore said.

The present North Vietnamese fighter force includes about 15 MIG21s which are considered a reasonable match for American Phantoms. Another 40 are older model MIG15 and MIG 17 types. And the North Vietnamese have, in addition, about half a dozen obsolescent IL28 bombers.

No Word on Battle

Officials said the MIG21s, the latest models owned by the Vietnamese, carry two types of missiles, one a heat seeker and the other a guided weapon.

They disclaimed any definite knowledge on whether both types have been fired by North Vietnamese pilots at their American foes. So far, according to official accounts, none of these Communist air-to-air missiles has struck American aircraft.

The MIG21s are believed to have been supplied by the Soviet Union. The MIG15s and 17s could have come from the Soviet Union and Red China.

The U.S. belief still is that the North Vietnamese planes are flown by pilots of that country, and officials said there are no signs of either Soviet or Red Chinese involvement in air combat.

Are Your Insurance Agents Working IN THE DARK?

If you divide your insurance business among several agents, you divide the responsibility for your program of protection. You can overinsure . . . pay for duplicate coverage. You can be underinsured with no protection in important areas. It is simply common sense to hold one person accountable for a plan that fits your needs.
